Facts about Fabrics

Trimblings . . . frame the Picture

ASK any successful artist how important he considers the framing of his pictures.

He will probably tell you that the wrong frame can ruin the "mood" of a work, distort a carefully planned composition, break up the harmony of a color scheme. But that the right frame will "point up" the picture's good qualities, relate it appropriately to its surroundings, even, sometimes, give a mediocre picture character, importance, interest.

Such also is the relation of the trimming to a drapery or upholstery fabric. It can add the final accent of perfection to an already distinguished fabric; and it can save from mediocrity a material of little intrinsic worth. But the trimming (like the picture frame) must be created and blended by the hand of an artist, a master of the craft.

Scalamandre first began to design and make their own trimmings because of the limited variety and originality of trimmings then available through usual sources. In order to obtain trimmings suitable in quality, imagination and appropriateness, and to maintain exclusiveness in the fine fabrics they were creating, there was no choice but to create the trimmings as well.

Soon decorators, seeing how important trimmings could become when artistically handled, made increasing demands for new and unusual designs and for duplication of irreplaceable and worn period decorations. This demand has grown so that the production of trimmings, once a small though necessary part of Scalamandre Silks' business, has become a very large part of their activity.

Today there is a Scalamandre trimming for every type of drapery or upholstery fabric, or one can be especially designed. There is no longer any reason for trimmings to be the "step-child" of interior decoration.

Bougainvillea

Of all the flowers blooming here in such bright profusion throughout the year, Bougainvillea with its glossy leaves and brilliant blossoms plays the most important role in beautifying the homes and estates of Palm Beach.

This woody, spicy vine is of South American origin, named for the famous French navigator, Louis Antoine De Bougainville, who in 1766 completed for his country their first successful voyage around the world, enriching science and geography by many important discoveries.

Bougainvillea's uses for decorative planting are practically numberless. Lending itself freely to the task of covering walls and fences it can also be trimmed to form thick hedges along driveways and walks and on many Palm Beach estates the plants have been sheared and trained for standards at entrances to houses and patios.

Its climbing proclivities make it especially adaptable for pergolas, arbors and trellises. When planted along the walls of buildings bougainvillea is like a gaudy, grasping creature bent upon a career. She utilizes anything that will further her ambitions to reach the top. A rusty nail, a length of chicken wire or a bit of string are means to an end. At the home of Mrs. Gretchen Kroger Barnes in Brazilian Avenue the

In 1661, Jamaica's Parliament enacted the first of a series of quality-control laws which have helped to give the world its finest rums. Today they remain unique in the diminishing selection of fine imported liquors—result of Jamaica's climate, soil and water—and a centuries-old, painstaking development of their slow, natural, virtually "hand made" manufacture.

Select a light or dark Jamaica rum—any of the dozen or more brands. They blend naturally with simple, "standard" mixers—soda, ginger ale, vermouth, and especially, tropic fruit juices for which they have a geographical affinity. So, when you're after a new flavour, when quality is paramount, ask for

Rums

Try these favourite recipes that the Jamaicans themselves endorse:

JAMAICA PUNCH—1/3 jigger lemon or lime juice, 2/3 jigger sugar or syrup, 1 jigger Jamaica Rum, 1 1/3 jiggers water, lots of cracked ice. Shake until creamy collar rises—serve immediately.

JAMAICA SWIZZLE—To one jigger Jamaica Rum add 6 dashes Angostura Bitters, juice of one lime or lemon, 1 teaspoonful granulated sugar and plenty of shaved ice. Churn with swizzle stick till container begins to frost. Strain into cocktail glass and serve.

BOUGAINVILLEA

vine has climbed a rain pipe and branched out on either side to peep into the second story windows.

Many varieties of Bougainvillea have been brought in the last few years to enhance the beauty of gardens and grounds, but the most extensively used here as well as in Bermuda and in Porto Rico, is the Glabra, which makes the most brilliant showing with its dark green foliage and reddish-purple bracts.
This popular variety grows rapidly and with little care, covering everything within reaching distance in short order.
It possesses and glorifies the high wall surrounding the Edward F. Hutton estate and grows luxuriantly around the grounds of the Frederick E. Guest estate on North Palm Beach Avenue.

At Vine Lodge, the winter home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer E. Sawyer on Australian Avenue, Bougainvillea has been allowed full sway, covering the high white walls of the house and feeling its way over the tiled roof. It is used extensively for decorative planting at Cielito Lindo, the home of Mrs. James
P. Donahue on South Ocean Boulevard, where it climbs along the steps to the patio.

In Worth avenue, exclusive Palm Beach shopping center, the severe lines of the buildings are softened by the growth of the glossy leaves and brilliant blossoms. It outlines the graceful arched windows and covers the tiny grilled balconies above. Planted around the colonnades of the Via Mizner building, Bougainvillea climbs in a tangled mass of green and purple to form a glorious canopy for the second story verandas and when in full blossom it presents a picture so ineffably beautiful that even the confirmed stoic would be moved to exclaim.

The Crimson Lake variety of Bou-gainvillea, rapidly growing in popularity, was brought out several years ago by F. M. Delavan, pioneer florist of West Palm Beach. Its bright red flowers resemble rambler roses from a distance. As its color makes it more desirable from an artistic point of view it is in many instances replacing the Glabra.

The Crimson Lake is grown with striking effect at the Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen home in El Bravo Way, where it almost covers the front of the house, and in Clarendon Avenue it colors the south wall surrounding the grounds of the R. Amcotts Wilsons winter home.

Excellent plantings of the brick-colored Lateritia are found around the swimming pool at the home of Mrs.
Margaret Emerson as well as at the Frelinghuysen home in El Bravo Way.

Bougainvillea Braziliensis produces the largest flower of the species and is popular on many of the large island estates. The yellow Pratorias is among the most recently developed varieties, a sport from the Crimson Lake brought out by Madame Pratorias.

MR. JOSEPH FREDERICK GUNSTER

Of Clarks Summit, Pa., and well known member of the Palm Beach winter colony, who was recently elected President of the Society of the Four Arts.

Despite the somber shadows cast by America's entry into the world-wide war arena, Palm Beach's cottage colony has retained a sane, healthy perspective; interspersing war work with pleasant interludes as hosts to their friends in their lovely tropical patios and other attractive settings.

There are still the same colorful and interesting gatherings of friends for an afternoon tea or a swimming party at the resort's beautiful estates, and many a constructive idea for helping America in her hour of need has been conceived in friendly chats during moments of relaxation.

Basking in the sun and chatting over tea and cocktails on terraces overlooking the sky blue waters of swimming pools, has been found to be an admirable antidote to the host of neuroses that infect many of America's metropolitan centers.

In strong contrast to the feeling expressed by a minority of visitors, that one should go into seclusion for the duration of the war, such resort leaders as Mr. John Shepard, Jr., and Mr. Hugh Dillman, have urged their friends in the resort to continue their normal, well-balanced lives, and to ignore the barrage of panicky rumors and other morale-shattering occurrences that mark our entry into war.

Mr. Shepard's birthday anniversary party, which has become a tradition in the resort, found a host of his and his wife's friends gathering at Casa del Pastor, their Dunbar Road residence on New Year's Day, to do honor to one of Palm Beach's outstanding personalities and leaders.

The day and the occasion marked the eighty-fifth birthday of Mr. Shepard and his forty-fifth year in Palm Beach. The whole-hearted participation of the social colony was another indication of the affection and regard in which Mr. and Mrs. Shepard are held in the resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shepard, son and daughter-in-law of the host, aided in receiving the several hundred members of the winter colony, with members of the Shepard house party. This included Col. and Mrs. Howard Hutter, of Camp Blanding, and Mr. George Blodgett, of Boston.

Mrs. John Shepard, Jr., wore a rose silk crepe gown with matching jacket edged with fringe. Her corsage was of white gardenias. A delicious buffet, tastefully arranged, was served. A huge punch bowl in the garden was sampled by the guests. Large vases of cut flowers decorated the many lovely settings of the Shepard home.

Among those attending the reception were: Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman, Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Bryden, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Appleton, Dr. and Mrs. Leland Eggleston Cofer, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Sims Wyeth, Mr. and Mrs. William Seward Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan D. Among the many interesting parties given recently for this purpose by the younger hosts in the cottage colony, was Mr. Charles B. Alexander's dinner-party at his home, "Whitehouse," on North Ocean Boulevard. After dinner, the guests attended the opening New Year's Eve party at the Everglades Club. Mr. Alexander's guests included Mr. and Mrs. John W. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Gray S. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Turnure, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Rayner, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McNeil, Mrs. Robert D. Huntington, Miss Barbara Campbell, Mr. A. Laughlin Alexander, Mr. Hugh G. Mr. Charles Francis Coe, noted author and prominent figure in political circles, followed a house party at his home with a motor trip to Miami to attend the Orange Bowl football classic, which found Georgia triumphing over Texas Christian in a thrilling game. Mr. Lawrence (Chip) Robert, Jr., was the guest of honor. Other guests were Mr. Bertrand L. Taylor, of Hobe Sound, Mr. Maurice Fatio, and Mr. Sol Rosenblatt.

A military flavor was imparted to the social colony with the recent arrival of Commander John M. L. Rutherford and Mrs. Rutherford at their North Lake Trail residence. Commander Rutherford, who has been a popular member of the resort colony for many years, in charge of Cecil Field, the new air base, twelve miles west of Jacksonville. With the Rutherfords are Commander R. L. Bowman and Mrs. Bowman, of the Jacksonville Air Base, Commander Richard Moss and Mrs. Moss, Colonel H. D. Jay and Mrs. Jay, and their daughter, Margaret Jay. Col. Jay is attached to General Griswold's staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., who purchased the Wolcott Blair residence early this season, are typical of many of the resort colony this year, with Mr. Sloan dividing his time between his many defense activities and their new home in Palm Beach. Mr. Sloan is chairman of the board of General Motors and is a prominent figure in Washington and New York, where he is directing certain phases of defense work.

Mrs. William R. Sweatt, popular resort resident, and member of the social colony, gave an interesting dinner party at "La Playera," her Sea Breeze Avenue villa recently. The dinner was given in compliment to Mr. Sidney Homer and Madame Louise Homer, who are staying in the resort as the house-guests of Dr. and Mrs. Daniel J. McCarthy. Other dinner guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Van Dusen, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Sweatt, Mrs. Harry E. Noyes, Mr. Larry Shields, and the Reverend Tage Teisen.

Mr. Charles A. Munn, whose ocean front home, "Amado," has been the setting for interesting social gatherings over a period of many years, is again entertaining at a number of interesting and informal house parties, with his lovely little home-theatre the background for many pleasant gatherings of friends, who enjoy the motion picture industry's latest epics in this interesting setting.

THIS SEASON finds the always civic-minded Everglades Club dedicating its entire resources to the purpose of aiding America's armed forces, following an eloquent address to the membership on New Year's Eve, the opening night, by Mr. Hugh Dillman, president of the club and leader in the community's various worthy drives. Always the nucleus of the outstanding humanitarian and civic drives sponsored in Palm Beach, the Everglades Club, through its president, is issuing a clarion call to not only its membership, but to the entire colony, to put their collective shoulders to the wheel and help Uncle Sam.

With a record of giving, that includes raising more money per capita than any other group of persons in the United States for the Warm Springs Foundation in Georgia—not to mention the innumerable worthy causes such as the Unified Drive, the American Red Cross, the Hospitals, and participation in the activities of Volunteers for Victory, and other causes dedicated to national and civic betterment—the membership of the Everglades Club have been, and continue to be, a tremendous force in helping their less fortunate neighbors in the community and the nation.

A demonstration of the spirit with which the members of the Everglades Club are entering into active support of their president in his plans for helping the armed forces of our country and bolstering community morale, was shown at the conclusion of Mr. Dillman's opening night speech, when the crowd of six hundred members and guests of the club accorded him an ovation.

Epitomizing the patriotic spirit that predominated throughout the evening of the opening dinner-dance at the Everglades Club, was the decorative theme. From the entrance to the Mediterranean Patio, which is always the key point in the Everglades Club's many masterpieces of decorative art, the interior settings of the club carried a message of patriotism to the guests.

Atop this tableau was a beautifully illuminated Red Cross and the V symbol for victory, and to the right of Uncle Sam, dramatically pictorialized in his shirt sleeves, with his white locks tousled and his hat tossed in the ring, a unit of field artillery added its grim note to the setting.

As usual, the club was literally banked with thousands upon thousands of fragrant flowers, with red poinsettias in amazing numbers, used from the flag-draped entrance to the central patio.

Inspiring patriotic posters that blazoned forth a hundred appeals for the co-operation and help of the American people for our Army and Navy, were in evidence throughout the club's lovely rooms and loggias.

A highlight of the New Year's Eve opening was the singing of patriotic songs by the entire assemblage, with such nostalgic Army songs as "Caissons Go Rolling Along," and "Tipperary," following the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" at the conclusion of Mr. Dillman's address dedicating the club to America's war program.

In keeping with the program laid out by the president of the Club, to do everything possible, between war drives, to foster a normal mode of living, as the best insurance of a strong community morale and the most effective weapon against wholesale neuroses, the Everglades Club has resumed its regular club nights and weekly social functions. Plans are being made to convert many of these gatherings into backgrounds for various war drives.

The initial Backgammon Tournament of the season at the Everglades Club, on January 6, found almost one hundred participants and an even greater number of onlookers for this fascinating weekly tourney. Many guests enjoyed the buffet dinner, held in conjunction with the tournament, dancing in the Orange Gardens to Emil Petti's music until the early hours.

Backgammon, as exemplified by the Everglades Club's weekly tournaments, has become one of the musts on the social calendar of many members and guests of the club.

An interesting view of the Everglades Club's championship golf course, which is again the background for daily games played by many of the best amateur players in the social colony.

A perusal of the guest list on Backgammon nights at the Everglades Club is reminiscent of a browse through the pages of the social register and who's who in the world. Hundreds of members and guests of the club find the spectacle of from one hundred to one hundred and twenty-five topnotch players engaging in the club's weekly tournament, a fascinating diversion, and intersperse watching their favorites with dancing under the stars.

This season finds the Orange Gardens once more the fragrant background for the club's weekly Tombola and Buffet Luncheons, with fashion shows by the island's leading shops, the "piece de resistance." Once again Worth Avenue is lined with every imaginable make of custom-built motor-car, as the island's social colony turns out almost enmasse on Wednesday afternoons for these sparkling gatherings.

Several hundred members and guests enjoyed the Everglades Club's first Tombola and Buffet Luncheon on Wednesday, January 7, and a host of reservations have been sent in for tomorrow's Tombola.

The club's first daytime gathering of members and guests proved one of the most interesting in its history, with the Orange Gardens and the lovely interior settings of this famous social and civic center proving an attractive setting for the many luncheon parties given at their Tombola and Buffet Luncheon.

Last Thursday's Duplicate Bridge Tournament at the club, found a representative group of players participating, with prospects for one of the largest seasonal list of players in the history of the club.

Another popular tourney at the Everglades Club discloses a number of Towie enthusiasts enjoying Mr. J. Leonard Replogle's fascinating derivative of Bridge. Saturday evenings have been set aside at the club for these weekly games, with many of the players enjoying dinner at the club, prior to their tournament.

One of the interesting additions to the outdoor settings of the Everglades Club, is the recently completed dance floor, built just off the golf course and adjacent to the club-house.

This dance floor was built primarily for the purpose of holding a number of war-drive parties in the unique outdoor setting provided by the club's beautiful fairways and tropical flora, with a special golf match as the outstanding patriotic effort for America's armed forces.

A barrage of klieg lights will be utilized for this precedent-shattering match. The eighteenth hole of the course is the arena for the match, which will feature the resort's finest shot-makers. Following the tournament, members and their guests will gather around the recently completed dance floor amidst the fragrance of night blooming jasmine and the lovely tropical background to enjoy a friendly chat and dancing under the starlit sky.

Many of the tennis devotees at the Everglades Club have found the courts in excellent shape, and an interesting series of matches is being arranged to augment the daily games. The terraces of the long, rambling wing of the club building that fronts the series of courts, is a popular setting, these sunny afternoons, for intimate tea parties, where the guests can enjoy the spirited rallies and colorful phases of close fought matches.

The club's maisonettes and apartments are almost completely occupied this season. A large number of the residents at the Everglades Club are planning a season's stay.

With the island's social and civic center providing an interesting continuity of events, both from a social and a civic standpoint, the Everglades Club is again the hub of Palm Beach's diversified activities.

Through the delicately etched frond of a grove of lovely coconut trees, one of the wings of the beautiful facade of the Everglades Club is seen. In and around this famous private club are many such attractive tropical settings.

Society of the Four Arts

UNDER A NEW PRESIDENT the Society of the Four Arts which, for several years, has devoted its energies to the promotion of music, art, literature and drama in Palm Beach, has made extensive plans for another fruitful season to further its worthwhile ventures.

Mr. Joseph Frederick Gunster was made new President when Dr. Daniel J. McCarthy was forced to resign that office for reasons of health and business.

Holding to its high standards, The Society of the Four Arts has drafted for the art department an unusually interesting program for 1942. Already there has been an outstanding exhibition of water colors, with many of the compositions hung of such excellence as to be of national importance. Besides presenting to the public features of a certain artistic value, it is of interest to realize that last year the Society contributed to the welfare of American artists by sales amounting to eleven thousand dollars.

During the late spring in 1941, the Department of Tropical Design was inaugurated and continued through summer and fall months. In this new department, research is carried on in the use and adaptation of tropical material in the field of design. In the fashion of the French Atelier, artists are specializing in various aspects of the project.

Last year in pursuing its policy of cooperation with war relief organizations, the Society sponsored and conducted a most successful auction. Divided equally among three established groups were the proceeds of $10,500, viz.: Bundles For Britain, British War Relief, and British and American Ambulance Corps. This policy of active aid will be continued in 1942.

Books in the circulating and reference library have, through gifts and purchases, shown a steady growth and now number about 2,500 volumes. As a privilege of membership, books may be borrowed without charge by members. Non-members of the Society may enjoy the use of the library on payment of two dollars, half of which is returned at the close of the season or at time of departure. As usual, the facilities of the reading room and reference library are free to the public. It might be added that donations of books on any subject are welcomed by the library.

It is of importance to remember that all activities of The Society of the Four Arts are financed wholly by membership dues. The 1942 Season opened with no encumbrances for the Society, however, due to the burning of the mortgage at the close of last year. And it is the successful state of finances which affords members such privileges as exhibitions, teas, and the use of the library. Last year in the field of cultural entertainment, the Literature Committee conducted poetry-reading groups semi-monthly, and sponsored six lectures. Three outstanding concert artists were presented by the Music Department. Arranged for this season are similar activities, free to members.

Besides the recently closed show of water colors, which included nearly two hundred contemporary compositions of outstanding national interest and merit, the Society's art calendar will include a "Distinguished Interiors Exhibit" (Interiors of distinguished American homes . . . tempera and water colors), Mr. Van Truex, Chairman, January 16-25. "Contemporary American Painting," Mr. McKim, Chairman, January 30-February 15. "Tropical Design" (Application of tropical motif to industrial arts and interior decoration) Mrs. George C. VanDusen, Chairman, February 20-March 8; and, at the same time, "Garden Sculpture," to be arranged outside the buildings, Mrs. Woodhouse, Chairman. The final event will be the "Members' Exhibition" (Fourth annual exhibition by artist members), Mrs. McCarthy, Chairman, March 13 - April 2.

The officers for this year are: President, Mr. Joseph Frederick Gunster. Honorary Presidents, Mrs. John Elliot, Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse. Vice - Presidents, Dr. Daniel J. McCarthy, Mr. Maurice Fatio, The Hon. Mrs. Frederick E. Guest, and Mr. Alfred G. Kay. Secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth White McCarthy. Treasurer, Dr. Edmund LeRoy Dow. Director, Mrs. Ann Poeller.

The Chairmen of Committees include for Painting and Sculpture, Mrs. Frederick Johnson. Music, Princess Alexis Zalstem-Zalesky and Mrs. H. H. Windsor, Jr. Drama, Mr. Harvey Ladew. Literature, Mrs. John Elliot. Education, Mrs. Edward D. Stair. Tropical Design, Mrs. George C. VanDusen. Finance, Mr. Ernest G. Howes. Membership, Mrs. Frederick Morrish. Library, Dr. George A. Waterman. Hospitality, Mrs. Joseph F. Gunster. Garden, Mrs. Alfred G. Kay.

The Board of Directors of the Society is made up of Mr. Ernest G. Howes, Mrs. LeRay Berdeau, Mrs. Earl P. Charlton, Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Mrs. Charles S. Davis, Mr. C. Percival Dietsch, Mrs. Hugh Dillman, Mr. Maurice Fatio, Mrs. P. H. B. Frelinghuysen, Mrs. Henry Ittleson, Mr. Harvey S. Ladew, Mrs. George Luke Mesker, Mr. William L. McKim, Mrs. Paul Moore, Mr. Ralph H. Norton, Mrs. John S. Phipps, Mrs. R. S. Pierrepont, Mrs. Wiley R. Reynolds, Mrs. Benjamin Rogers, Mrs. Alexander H. Rutherford, Mrs. Edward D. Stair, Mr. Harold W. Sweatt, Mr. John Charles Thomas, Mr. George C. VanDusen, Mr. Marion Sims Wyeth, Mr. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld, Mr. Charlton Yarnell, and Princess Alexis Zalstem-Zalesky.

The Sport of Kings at Hialeah Park

WITH CALIFORNIA'S Santa Anita plant definitely closed for the winter racing season, Florida becomes the nation's winter racing capital, with two superlative tracks, Hialeah and Tropical, playing host to the "Sport of Kings."

Tropical Park, reorganized and rejuvenated under the leadership of a keen group of sportsmen, comprising the Gables Racing Association, has just terminated the first half of a most successful meet and will greet race-goers again on March 9 when it opens the Spring program.

Hialeah Park, famed for its beauty, the cream of the horse world, and for its internationally known roster of racing fans, bows to the winter season tomorrow with the Inaugural Handicap, which will be followed in rapid succession by the Hialeah Stakes race Saturday, January 17, the Palm Beach Handicap Saturday, January 24, and the Miami Beach Handicap Saturday, January 31.

President John C. Clark of the Miami Jockey Club and his associates have completed all arrangements for the 46-day meeting. Striving to make Hialeah Park more attractive this year than ever before, the Miami Jockey Club has completed this season's program of beautification and major and minor improvements which will be of benefit to the patron.

A reduction in admission charges to Hialeah Park becomes effective with the 1942 season. A new mile chute has been constructed, which is an offset from the main track, and makes possible the scheduling of popular mile races.

The clubhouse mezzanine, particularly that section which is occupied by members of the Hialeah Club, has been enlarged to afford more spacious entrances and exits.

The grandstand parking area has been completely renovated and oiled. Two additional exit gates have been installed to eliminate traffic congestion at the conclusion of the day's races.

Installation of an enlarged and improved screen for flashing photo finishes will provide greater accessibility for the public.

And Hialeah's birdlife continues to play an important part in the matter of attractions for the visitor. Five roseate spoonbills, whose native habitat is South America, are important additions to the bird colony. They are extremely rare in this country.

Post time for the first race each day during the meeting, January 14 to March 7, will be 2 o'clock. Entries will close daily at 10:30 A. M. Time limit to place claims is 15 minutes prior to post time for each race. The daily double, according to Mortimer Mahony, supervisor of the mutuel department, will close at 1:45 P. M.

The horse that won the largest amount of money at Hialeah was Big Pebble. This son of Black Servant—Beach Talk during the meeting of 1940 and 1941 earned $82,150 to include victories in The McLennan and The Widener last season. His nearest rival was Many Stings, the son of Canaan—Many Thorns. In the same two seasons he earned $66,325 to include The McLennan and The Widener of 1940.

Because of the popularity of races over a route, President John C. Clark of the Miami Jockey Club, has placed particular emphasis on distance events during the 46-day program. With this in mind, Racing Secretary McLennan has arranged for a series of races in excess of a mile. The first issue of the condition book shows 26 races at a mile and a furlong; five at a mile and three-sixteenths; three at a mile and one-quarter; one at a mile and three furlongs; four at a mile and one-half, and one at a mile and three-quarters.

Graded handicaps will play an important part in the season's program. These are scheduled by McLennan each Wednesday of the meeting beginning January 21. They are to be run in three divisions, ranging in value from $1,400 for Class C handicaps; $1,500 for Class B handicaps, and $1,600 for Class A handicaps.

The guiding genius of Joseph E. Widener, prominent Philadelphia and Palm Beach sportsman, has been in a major part responsible for the success of the Miami Jockey Club and beautiful Hialeah Park. Active in Hialeah since 1931, Widener served as president from 1935 through 1939. His son, P. A. B. Widener, was installed as president in 1940, and then followed John C. Clark in the season of 1941. Joseph E. Widener has been vice-chairman of The Jockey Club for many years and was formerly president of Belmont Park.

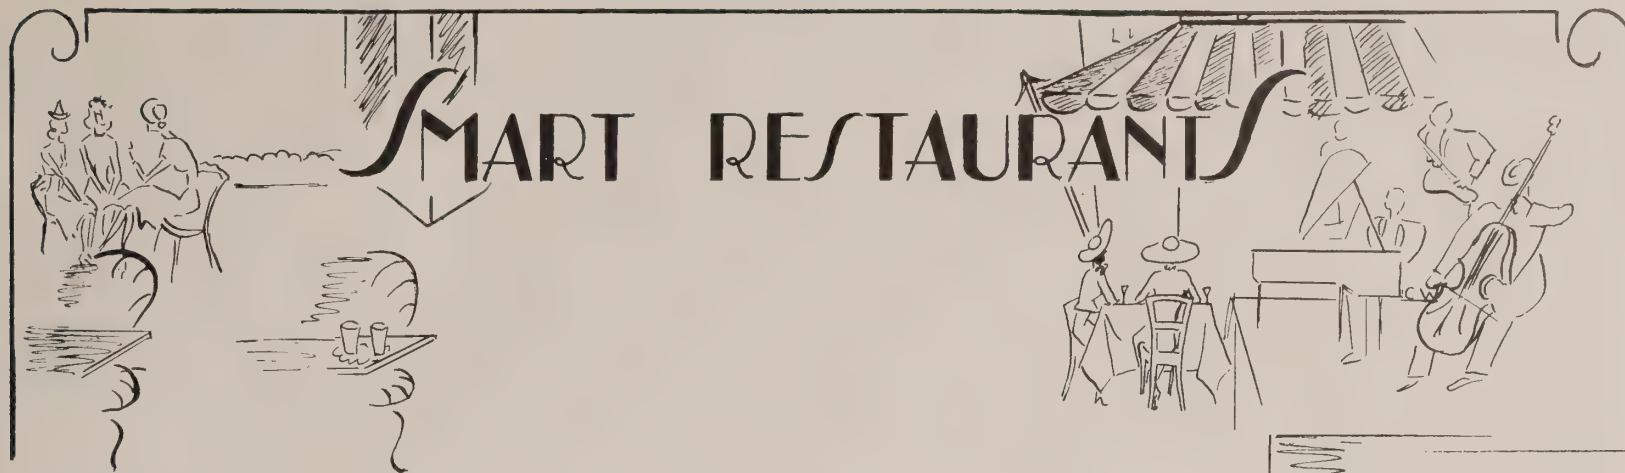

John C. Clark is nationally known in the advertising field as president of the Wylie B. Jones Advertising Agency of New York City. Advertising is his vocation, racing his avocation. His interest in thoroughbred racing was strengthened by a long friendship with his fellow townsman, the late Willis Sharpe Kilmer, a power in racing and breeding for the last thirty odd years of his life.

John C. Clark has campaigned a small stable annually and became impressed with the advantages of Miami as a winter resort early in life. He has been a winter resident in the Miami area for the past quarter of a century and is one of the pioneer residents of Miami Beach. Prior to his election as president of The Miami Jockey Club he had been a director of that organization for five years. He is now serving his second season in the office of president.

Beautiful Hialeah track of the Miami Jockey Club bows to the winter racing season tomorrow with a record crowd expected to watch the running of the Inaugural Handicap.

AS THE RESORT enters the new season, a popular pastime is greeting old friends and acquaintances and renewing visits to favorite dining places. One of the latter is Mayerling, the only Viennese restaurant on the island, which is now in its second year.

Mayerling, as all smart resorters know, is located in the Worth Avenue Arcade, making it ideally convenient for busy Worth Avenue shoppers who want to take a little time out for lunch and refreshments. It is again under the management of Charles Hackl, formerly of Hapsburg House and the Everglades Club, who benefits this delightful dining place with his long wealth of experience. The chef is again an artist who understands the intricacies of the famed Viennese cuisine, and has a way with gulasches, wiener schnitzels and kaiserschmarrn, to mention a few of the items from the varied menu, each of which has an authentically Viennese flavor.

Many improvements were made at Mayerling before its reopening this season, one of the most notable of which is the gaily striped canopy which now covers the charming flagstoned patio, making it possible for guests to enjoy dining in the open regardless of inclement weather.

Numerous numbers of the cottage colony have been noted at Mayerling in informal luncheon gatherings or dinner parties including Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mackintosh, Prince and Princess Zalstem-Zalessky, Mr. and Mrs. A. Parker Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald C. Rayner, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold W. Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. T. Preston Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Turnure and Mr. David H. McCulloch.

Others noted at Mayerling are Dr. and Mrs. Harbeck Halsted, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd P. Griscom, Mr. and Mrs. H. Winfield Chapin, Mr. Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Mrs. Johnson Gensler and her daughter, Miss Frances Gensler, Mr. Edmund Sheedy, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus Stokes and Mr. and Mrs. John L. Volk.

As it enters its third season in the colony, the Chambord, leading French restaurant on the island, is again attracting discriminating colonists of educated tastes who appreciate the continental cuisine and fine wines which are featured there. The Chambord is again under the guidance of Rene Filliard, whose connections with Louis Sherry's and the Brook Club make him known to many of the socialites who are frequent visitors to this distinctive place.

Due to the foresightedness of the management, there will be no shortage of vintage champagnes at the Chambord this season. And, also having looked to the wine cellars before the outbreak of the war, the Chambord offers one of the most comprehensive wine lists to be found in the country. The connoisseur can appreciate such items as Clos Vougeot, 1926, Gevrey-Chambertin, 1933, Romanee Conti, 1929, and, most prized of all, Chateau Montrose, 1916, the latter a veritable gift for the gods.

In its spirit of keeping abreast with the times, the Chambord is cooperating with Aid America, Inc., the organization which is headed by Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., and boasts some of the leading socialites of the resort as sponsors. A substantial portion of the proceeds each Monday night is given to this worthy work. There is also a presentation of a twenty-five dollar defense bond made each Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moffat, who are staying at the Everglades Club, were dinner hosts to an interesting group at the Chambord recently when their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Paul Timbal, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ladd, Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky III, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray, Prince and Princess Zalstem-Zalessky and Lady Pasco-Rutter, who was in the resort for a few days as the guest of the Zalesskys.

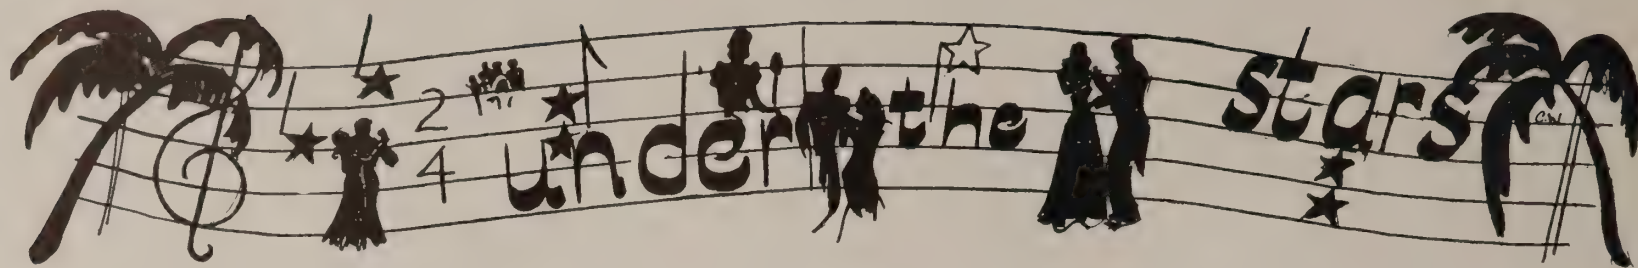

Others noted at the sunny sidewalk cafe of the Chambord or in more formal dinner parties recently were Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Kauffmann, Mr. Thomas J. Prindiville, who has been the house guest of Mr. Stewart McDonald and Mr. S. Richard Carlisle. Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Ellsworth and Mr. Winthrop N. Saltus have been among the Hobe Sound residents seen at the Chambord recently.

Completed in time for the season, and new to Palm Beach socialites this year, is Ted Stone's Ta-boo on Worth Avenue. With its motif of South Sea ease and color, pale-gray canopied ceiling hiding clever indirect lighting, beautiful bamboo bars and spacious lounge and patio each with log-burning fireplaces, Ta-boo already has been the setting of a host of parties, as well as delightful luncheons for the smart set.

The night of Ta-boo's informal opening was a gala one for society, with many well-knowns and persons of interest in attendance. Every chair and table was in demand in the lounge and patio. Both bamboo bars, the long one inside and the amusing curved bar in the patio near the gin-rummy corner, were utterly taxed.

A handsome package store adjoins the lounge, and as an innovation to resorters, Ta-boo remains open throughout the evening, making it possible to enjoy a late supper or perhaps a nightcap beside a glowing log fire.

Unique among resort institutions is the South Ocean Club which, in one short season, has climbed to a high place in the favor of winter colonists from Palm Beach and its neighboring communities.

Located at the southernmost point of Palm Beach, between the Atlantic and the waters of Lake Worth, the club is a pleasant drive of several miles from the center of the resort. A charming example of Bahamian architecture, with its main rooms on the second floor, the South Ocean Club depicts the very latest trend in tropical building. Though colorful the decor is cool and restful.

During the summer months several changes have been made in the club property. The jungle growth, which surrounded the clubhouse last season, has been replaced with smooth lawns and the parking space has been doubled in size. The lower terrace has been inclosed and the upper loggia inclosed late in the spring, has been redecorated and fitted with Venetian blinds. On the lake terrace, a favorite dining and dancing spot balmy nights, windows have been cut in the windbreakers to the north, affording a view of the ocean.

Unchanged are the dining room, where a Vaughan seascape is an interesting note and the Headhunter Cocktail Lounge, so-called because of R. Bushnell Hyman's striking mirror mural.

Increasingly popular with members and guests is the smooth, sophisticated music of Gus Lazaro and his Bahamian Club orchestra, formerly with the Patio Lamaze in Palm Beach, and for the past seven seasons at the Bahamian Club in Nassau. Included in their repertoire are all the latest melodies as well as favorites from other seasons. Finding favor with the patrons is the trio from the orchestra which, between dances, roams among the tables playing and singing requests.

Owned by Mr. Jarrold R. West, the South Ocean Club is under the management of Mr. George R. Stich, formerly of the Everglades Club, with Mr. Harry M. Cossins, also formerly of the Everglades Club, as assistant manager. The post of headwaiter is capably filled by John Ulrich, for twenty years with the Ritz-Carlton in New York, whose suave manner has won the approval of members and guests.

Among the prominent Palm Beach colonists who have been noted at the South Ocean Club are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald M. Geddes, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Stemmler, Mr. and Mrs. Everett W. Fabyan, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Timbal, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. V. Schulke, additions to the colony this season, who gave several dinners there for their guests, the Robert W. Giffors of New York and Miami Beach; Major and Mrs. H. Marcellus Gallop, whose party was for Mme. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese ambassador to the Court of St. James, a holiday visitor in the resort; Mrs. Edgar A. Bryan, Mrs. Theodore Frelinghuysen, Dr. Edmund LeRoy Dow, Mr. George Lovett Kingsland, Dr. and Mrs. Harbeck Halsted, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sheldon Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Gifford and others.

Come wind, come weather, the world-famous Patio continues to occupy its premier position in the pleasure paths of Palm Beach, playing host to internationally known personages who annually frequent this favorite gathering place of resort society.

The established reputation of The Patio, like that of the Stork Club in New York and the Jungle Club in Nassau, has been built up over the years by dint of an established reputation, its atmosphere, charm and distinctive continental cuisine, being evolved with painstaking care and tireless attention to every detail that would contribute to the comfort and pleasure of its guests.

As in former years, this season's improvements and re-decorations have been done under the watchful eye of Dan J. Shalek, manager and co-proprietor, with the thought ever foremost to detract as little as possible from the delightful atmosphere that has won The Patio renown the world over. Installation of heaters and an air control system won praise from the guests, with the unique sliding glass roof transforming the open dance floor into a snug room when inclement weather persists.

Val Ernie, Palm Beach's favorite maestro who, as conductor of the Broadway hit show High Kickers, with George Jessel and Sophie Tucker, won an accolade in a new field of endeavor, has returned to his own club and nightly offers his inimitable rhythmic melodies for his many friends and patrons. Nick Gara, personable maitre d'hotel, and Capt. Eddie Zimmerman devote their efforts to the pleasure of the guests while genial Jerry Whalen presides over the popular cocktail bar.

Among the interesting parties given at The Patio during the early season, one of the most delightful was that by Miss Marie Bassett and Mr. Hood Bassett honoring Miss Louise Swenson and Mr. Edward Swenson, Jr., the group of the younger set including Miss Eunice Kennedy, Miss Kathleen Kennedy, Miss Annette Reynolds, Miss Harriet Wells, Miss Martha Sweatt, Mr. Lloyd Wells, Cadet Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Mr. Jack Kennedy, Mr. Wiley R. Reynolds, Jr., Mr. Peter Malcolm, Ensign Robert Southworth, Cadet Thomas Kilifer, Mr. John McCann and Mr. Arthur Timbal.

Another recent dinner group was that of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Berger of the Waldorf-Astoria Towers, who were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Chester M. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Irving Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Pell and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henderson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moffat were hosts during a recent supper interval to Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky, III, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grey, Prince and Princess Zalstem-Zallessky, Mr. and Mrs. William Ladd and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Timbal.

Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., charming founder and chairman of Aid America, Inc., which is rapidly acquiring national recognition for its excellent work in aiding our soldiers and sailors, is a frequent dinner guest with her well known husband and groups of friends.

Gulf Stream Offers Polo At Its Best

THERE is no more beautiful setting in the world for the sport of polo than that seen at the Gulf Stream Polo Club at Gulf Stream, Fla., a twenty minute drive south of Palm Beach along the Ocean Boulevard.

Here, the country's best mallet wielders may be seen in action each Wednesday, Friday and Sunday afternoons, riding superb ponies gathered from the four corners of the earth.

Gulf Stream Polo Club is the Florida stronghold of this fascinating game which combines the skill and mastery of the rider and athlete with the acute sense and wiry strength of trained mounts.

Members of the famed Phipps teams included such poloists as John S. Phipps, Henry Carnegie Phipps, Ben Phipps, Hubert Phipps, Howard Phipps, John H. and Ogden Phipps.

Michael Phipps has risen to the status of one of the country's outstanding polo players since the days he captained the Yale Polo team, being a member of cup defense teams and participating in polo all over the world. His cousins, Raymond and Winston Guest, have also carved niches in the world of polo as ranking among the world's best on both cup defense teams and in cup defense play, while Stephen "Laddie," Sanford, another cousin, has won many laurels on the famed Westbury team and is seen in contests frequently at the Gulf Stream Polo Club.

Fred Tejan, genial manager of the Gulf Stream Polo Club who hails from Tulsa, Okla., and whose infectious laughter rings out over the field frequently during hot polo matches, has been in charge of the fields for a number of years. He has one of the best strings of ponies in the country, and has taught the rudiments of polo to players who now rank in the top brackets of the game.

Among players seen during the tri-weekly games at Gulf Stream, none stands out more vividly than Pedro Sil-vero, internationally known Argentine mallet wielder. He first came to this country with the Argentine team for the international games and his judgment of ponies is considered most sound by the leading players and polo experts.

Fred Wettach, superb horseman from Shrewsbury, L. I., has won special acclaim as a trainer of steeplechase ponies and hunters. His horsemanship is indeed something to watch and in spite of a nasty spill recently when his mount was instantly killed under him, he continues in the thick of the fray in all of the games.

Jess White, mid-western sportsman of husky build, plays a top-notch game in the frequent contests at Gulf Stream. Hailing from the Miami Valley Hunt and Polo Club of Dayton, Ohio, he hits a long ball and rides superbly, being counted on for long rallies down the field.

Maj. Art Christian, former captain of the Cornell team and stationed now at Morrison Field, distinguished himself in last Sunday's game when he scored three tallies for his side, riding like a demon on a damp field amid showers which made play hazardous.

Fred Mayer of the Oakbrook Polo Club of Evanston, Ill., can be counted on to do his share of the scoring as well as excellent work on defense while Jay Secor, well known player in the Open Championship at Westbury, packs a mean mallet and knows his horses.

Cyril Carr, in his role of referee seldom fails to call them when a player inadvertently fouls an opponent and thus maintains the rigid rules of polo, which cuts down the liability of accident and makes for the fine sportsmanship which is always a part of the play at Gulf Stream.

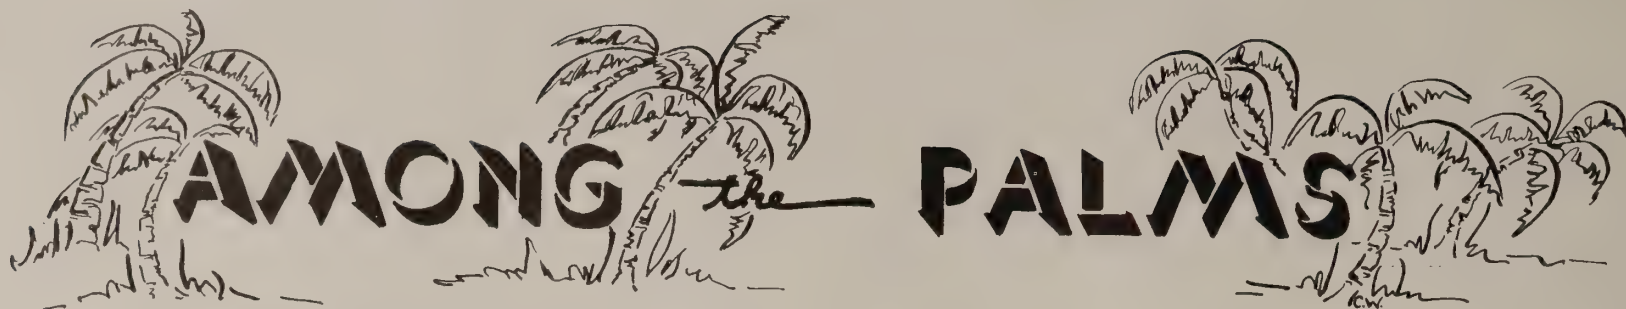

Garth Dollard, well known New York sportsman, whose love of horses and polo amazes all who come in contact with him, has done wonders to make the contests at Gulf Stream interesting for the novice. His well-modulated voice is heard over the public address system at all the games as he expertly analyzes the play as it progresses and gives interesting insights as to the merits of the various players taking part.

AMONG the PALMS

PALM BEACH'S list of distinctive hostelries are again the nucleus for much of the island's social activity. From the Breakers, with its magnificent view of the sea, to lovely and historic Whitehall, on the placid waters of Lake Worth, the resort's hotels are the settings for many interesting events.

As in past years, the distinguished roster of guests at the resort's leading hotels blend with the life of the colony, with an interesting interchange of social activity between the hotel contingent and the cottage colony.

One of the attractive features of hotel life in Palm Beach is, that the guests at the island's smart hostelries literally live under the palms; with every fine hotel in the resort built in a setting of lovely, whispering palms and a profusion of colorful tropical flowers and plants.

Whether it be a sea-side hotel, with the ever changing voice of the sea lulling the guest to sleep, or one of the more secluded inns, the whisper of rustling palms and the fragrance of flowers furnish the ideal accompaniment to social gatherings and the background of hotel life.

The internationally famous Breakers Hotel, on the shores of the Atlantic, opened formally on December 24, for the 16th season, with a tea dance in Cocoanut Grove. Always in the foreground as a focal point of interest in the resort's social life, this season finds Mr. John W. Greene, who has been the manager ever since the opening of the Breakers, again at the helm, directing the various activities which have made this hostelry outstanding in world-noted hotels.

Thousands of celebrities, social and political leaders, and other distinguished personages, both from this country and Europe, have spent much time at the Breakers in the past, and again this year, the register will carry numerous well-known names.

The Breakers with its continuity of striking architecture, which is a pleasing combination of Spanish and Italian, rises majestically above a lacery of palm trees. It faces the surf at Palm Beach where the blue of the Gulf Stream almost touches the shore. To the west extend the greens and fairways of the Golf Club; to the south along the golden beach lies the exclusive Cabana Club with its Roman pool. Groves of coconut and royal palms, sunlit expanses of velvet lawn, brilliant shrubs and flowers create a garden-like setting of rare tropical beauty.

There is always something interesting to do at the Breakers, a round of golf in the morning, toward noon bathing and suntanning on the colorful beach, and then on to mid-day cocktails and dancing in Cocoanut Grove and the Terrace. Golf, tennis or fishing can while away the hours after luncheon, or if you don't feel in the mood for active exercise, there are many delightful walks around the grounds, or the popular wheel chair rides which are a Palm Beach tradition.

The late afternoon tea dances in Cocoanut Grove under the swaying palms, to the rhythmic music of Walter Miller's Meyer Davis Orchestra have become the smart vogue for the hotel and cottage colony. Added to this, are the Breakers sweepstakes, which are an exciting interlude in the dancing each afternoon.

After-dinner dancing in Cocoanut Grove under the tropical moon, is equally popular with resorters. To add variety to the festivities, three evenings a week are planned for cards and various games; Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

And, among the many things which lure guests back to the Breakers year after year, is the excellent cuisine. In fact, it is noted for good food and personalized service. The beautiful dining room, which echoes the Spanish-Italian architecture of the rest of the hotel, furnishes a perfect setting for gracious and friendly dining.

The marble halls of the former mansion of Henry M. Flagler, which welcome a host of guests of international prominence each season, to smart Whitehall, will be the open sesame for a series of outstanding social and civic functions this year.

In keeping with the magnificent traditions of the former Flagler manse, which has been noted for a half century as the home of some of the world's finest art treasures, Whitehall is continuing to adhere to the high standards that marked its entrance into the hotel world.

This smart hostelry is inaugurating its seventeenth season by entering into the patriotic spirit of the times. Whitehall has planned a social program that will place its entire resources at the disposal of worthy war activities, beginning with Mrs. Henry J. Topping's recently organized Aid America organization.

A sequence of fashion presentals is being arranged through the cooperation of Aid America, Inc. Palm Beach members of the younger set will act as models for these patriotic style shows, several of which are to be uniquely synchronized with modern dance themes.

Members of the Aid America committee, who will direct the activities of Whitehall's fashion shows are Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., the organization's chairman; Mr. John Robert Powers, as vice chairman; Mr. Wiley Reynolds, Jr., secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Ritchey Farrell, Miss Mary Munn, Mr. Charles A. Munn, Mr. Henry J. Topping, Jr., Mr. Milton Holden and Captain Alastair Mackintosh.

The Flagler billiard room has been transformed into an unique lounge, with Gin-Rummy, the game that is sweeping the social colony this season, to be played here in a series of tournaments. The lounge is splendidly equipped for devotees to this popular game, with many interesting Gin-Rummy parties having already been held there.

Walter L. Richard, well known authority on Gin-Rummy, will introduce the first tournament featuring this game at Whitehall on January 21st, and Wednesday night of each week will be set aside for the tourneys.

Nick D'Amico and his orchestra will make their Palm Beach debut this season. D'Amico is well known to the international set, having played for them at the Versailles, the Persian Room and more recently the Coq Rouge, in New York.

George Shelley, popular baritone, whose splendid voice and refreshing personality have endeared him to the Palm Beach colony for a number of years, will again furnish the musical highlight for Whitehall's social events.

Built into a setting of beautiful flower lined patios and lovely tropical trees and shrubs, the Brazilian Court, one of the resort's most attractive hostelrys, is taking its place in the parade of social and war-time activities in Palm Beach.

Centrally located, this noted winter home for many of the colony's most distinguished visitors, is one of the resort's beauty spots. It has strikingly landscaped patios and an architectural arrangement that makes every room look out on a sunny tropical setting.

Following its usual policy, the Brazilian Court Hotel opened early in the season and will accommodate guests until the late spring. The hotel is under the direction of Mr. Elliott F. Bishop who is there for his tenth season. During the summer he is manager of operations at the fashionable Montauk Manor and its associated units including a beach club, yacht and golf clubs.

Many well known guests have arrived for their annual sojourns at Brazilian Court which during the season is the residence of a host of the country's outstanding industrial executives, diplomats and conservative members of society. Mr. and Mrs. C. Vanderbilt Barton of New York, are there to remain throughout the winter. Mrs. A. Minford Bond and her son, Minford Wolcott Bond, of New York and Bernardsville, N. J., are occupying their usual suite at the hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Robert, Jr., who were at the hotel for the holidays, will return from Washington in mid-January to continue their visit. Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Waterman and their granddaughters, Patricia and Elizabeth Anne, are at the Brazilian Court for their annual visit. Mr. and Mrs. T. Bateson Finnigan are in residence for the winter. The beautiful patio with its exotic tropical planting, is the setting nightly for informal dinners. Many groups meet for tea or cocktails in the new Cloister lounge adjoining the cloister and the pine-paneled barroom. Dudley Doe and his orchestra play for the cocktail hour and during dinner.

The season at the Palm Beach Hotel opened formally on Christmas Eve and many northern visitors enjoyed the holidays there. Recent arrivals included Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ahearn of New York, Mr. Frank Bailey, Spring Lake, N. J., Mrs. H. R. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Brandon of Davenport, Ia., with their children, Betty and Edward Brandon; Miss Peggy Breed, Mrs. Francis Brett and son, William Brett, New York; Mrs. Mary Daly and sons, the Messrs. Arthur J. Daly and Walter H. Daly of New York; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dyer, Natick, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Frederick, Baltimore, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. George McCord, Hampshire House, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Quebbman, Miss Grace Quebbman, Western Springs, Ill.; Thomas Jefferson Ryan, New York; Miss Etta May Tucker, Edgewood, R. I., and Edward and Grace Wooster, Albany, N. Y. The Palm Beach Hotel is under the direction of Mr. James J. Farrell, who is manager of the popular Montmouth Hotel during the summer. Miss Grace Donehue is the new hostess who will be in charge of the social program.

Gracefully formed palm trees and a riot of tropical plants join with fleecy clouds in an entrancing frame for Whitehall.

NORTON GALLERY AND SCHOOL OF ART

THE NORTON GALLERY AND SCHOOL OF ART, one of Florida's chief cultural attractions, is the most modern institution of its kind in the South. The original building consisting of forty-three rooms arranged around a cloistered patio, with spacious planted grounds, was dedicated February 8, 1941. Presented to the Palm Beach Art League by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Norton, of Chicago and West Palm Beach, the purpose of this institution is designated on a bronze plaque in the marble foyer as follows: "For the Education and Enjoyment of the Public." Seven air-conditioned, sky-lighted galleries, facing Olive Street, house the Norton Collection of paintings and sculpture. Added during the summer were two more fine galleries to be used for current exhibitions by members of the Palm Beach Art League and guest artists. The galleries are open to the public without charge, daily, and the Norton Collection of Paintings and Sculpture is always available to students of the Norton School of Art.

The Norton Gallery and School of Art has, by the action of its Gallery Board, indorsed the resolution adopted by Museum Directors of America in their recent session in New York City, thereby pledging this institution to do everything possible to increase its usefulness to the public during the war. The Art Museum Directors' resolution is as follows:

"If, in time of peace, our museum and art galleries are important to the community, in time of war they are doubly valuable. For then, when the petty and the trivial fall away and we are face to face with final and lasting values, we as Americans must summon to our defense all our intellectual and spiritual resources. We must guard jealously all we have inherited from a long past, all we are capable of creating in a trying present, and all we are determined to preserve in an unseeable future.

"Never before has museum attendance been so great in Canada, or in England wherever museums can still function. Never has the public responded so eagerly to the creative life of today and to the meaning of the art of the past; never have the museums of those countries been so determined to serve.

"Therefore be it resolved:

"That American museums are prepared to do their utmost in the service of the people of this country during the present conflict.

"That they will continue to keep open their doors to all who seek refreshment of spirit.

"That they will, with the sustained financial help of their communities, broaden the scope and variety of their work.

"That they will be sources of inspiration illuminating the past and vivifying the present; that they will fortify the spirit on which victory depends."

Building upon its success of the Summer School, the Norton School of Art announces its schedule for the winter session, with a guest faculty of nationally known instructors who will supplement the work offered by the resident faculty. The School challenges the attention of those who wish to pursue the practice of the Fine Arts as a career as well as of those who approach it through the study of art appreciation and art history as an avocation.

There are classes for both beginners and advanced students, for children and adults. With splendid studios, modernly lighted and equipped, a cloistered patio and beautifully planted grounds, afford opportunity for studio and out-of-door classes.

Now in progress are the classes in Sculpture and Life, with J. Clinton Shepherd as instructor. There are day-time and evening sessions and the studios are open for inspection daily to visitors.

Classes in Beginners and Conversational Spanish are also meeting regularly, with Carmen Montoya as instructor. Miss Helena Williams is teaching Fashion Design; James Mallory Willson, Etching and Dry-Point and John Scott Lawson, Architectural Drawing.

The Guest Faculty of the Norton School of Art includes such eminent painters and instructors as Eliot O'Hara, famous watercolorist, well-known through his School at Goose Rocks Beach, Maine. His classes are now in progress and may be entered at any time.

Adolf Dehn, of New York, nationally known lithographer, will follow Mr. O'Hara as instructor in watercolor and will also teach gouache.

Mary C. McQuaid, of New York, will teach in Studio No. 3 which is equipped for instruction in Decorative, Commercial and Industrial Design, as well as Lettering and Silk Screen Painting. Silk Screen Painting is proving popular and gives the student opportunity for practical decorations that are the result of his own handiwork.

Lecture classes and criticisms are offered by Arnold Blanch, summertime instructor at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center. These courses are especially attractive to artists who wish to paint in their own studios and to bring in their work upon occasion for criticism by Mr. Blanch and by Doris Lee, well-known Figure Painter.

Resident members of the Music Department of the Norton School of Art include Basile Riaboukha, formerly tenor soloist with the La Scala Opera in Milan, Italy. He is Voice Instructor and Director of the Boys' Choir at the Norton School of Art. Dorothy Riaboukha, concert pianist, former head of piano department at Friends' University, Wichita, Kansas, and of American School in Mexico City, is piano instructor for beginners and advanced students. Cyrus Ullian, former member of the faculty of the Boston Conservatory of Music, and well-known concert pianist, offers instruction in piano to advanced students only.

Through the courtesy of Kenneth Arnold, Manager of the Royal Worth, West Palm Beach, a lakeside studio is being contributed to the Palm Beach Art League for Mr. Ullian's use.

The perfectly appointed theatre equipment in Pioneer Hall of the Norton School of Art, permits the offering of a series of plays that will be directed by Josephine E. Holmes, of Boston; Founder, co-owner and co-director of New London Players, New Hampshire; former Dean and Professor of Speech and Drama, Curry College of Speech, Boston, and former chairman of Speech Department of Mt. Holyoke College and Director of Dramatic Plays. Private and Class work in Speech, Diction and Voice Harmony is also offered.

Lectures, musicales, educational movies, illustrated lectures and gallery tours are also provided for the students and the public throughout the season.

This School is designed especially to meet the needs of the local youth and as an added interest to the visitors of the Palm Beaches, and provides at once a laboratory for creative work and a center for cultural and social activities for those interested in the promotion of the Fine Arts.

Endeavoring to augment the limited art instruction in the public schools, the staff and faculty of the Norton School of Art are offering a course in art appreciation to the public school teachers of Palm Beach County. On January 15th, and lasting for six months, a free course in art appreciation will be offered to a group of more than one hundred school teachers of Palm Beach County, who will in turn volunteer their services in attempting to interpret the privileges of the Norton Gallery and School of Art to the children by gallery tours, special programs and research material which is being provided through the Norton Art Library. The children will be brought by these teachers to the Gallery for tours and demonstration classes, and programs will be arranged in the public schools and libraries throughout the County, to acquaint the children with the pictures in the Norton Collection and to stimulate their interest in the field of the Fine Arts.

Artist members and patrons of the Palm Beach Art League have contributed three exhibitions of original works of art to be used as loan exhibitions to public schools, libraries and clubs.

The gift from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Norton of a Station Wagon to be used as an Artmobile for the Norton School of Art will greatly facilitate the extension work of the Educational Committee, of which Mr. and Mrs. Hubert F. Krantz are the Chairmen, and Mrs. Clyde W. Fisher, is Secretary.

Mary E. Aleshire, the Director of the Norton Gallery and School of Art, is conducting a free class for a group of persons who have volunteered, upon completion of the course, to assist in the library, school and galleries in the educational work. Special gallery tours and lectures may be arranged upon request. Members of the faculty of the Norton School of Art and visiting artists are assisting by contributing demonstrations and lectures to these volunteers.

A Rare Treatise on Jade

Art connoisseurs throughout the nation are hailing with enthusiasm the latest book of Mr. Stanley Charles Nott, noted international authority on period Jade, whose lectures at the Norton Art Gallery and at various of the country's leading universities have been outstanding contributions to the study of rare Chinese Jade, and, perhaps equally important, the exposure of attempts to foist spurious, modern Jades upon the public, as authentic period Jade.

Mr. Nott is more than well known to art lovers in Palm Beach, having established himself as an authority on rare Jade and as a collector, since his advent into the resort colony. His collection of Jade, according to world-renowned authorities, is numbered among the finest in the world, and his residence, "Jadeholm" is a veritable treasure trove of rare and beautiful creations of the ancient Chinese Jade Art.

His latest contribution to the study and appreciation of Jade, is entitled "An Illustrated Annotation on the Working and Dating of Chinese Jades" and, with the ink hardly dry on the pages, has already earned the enthusiastic approbation of the country's leading educators and scientists.

Not the least of the interest in this rare, handsomely bound book, is found in the fourteen reproductions of famous historical Jade pieces from original photographs and the magnificent colored reproduction of a Sino-Tibetan Enthroned Jade Buddha, which serves as an introduction to this fascinating book. This world-famous piece is in the private collection of Her Majesty, Queen Mary of England.

The text is taken from a recent lecture given by Mr. Nott at the University of Florida and is a masterpiece of terse, concise information relevant to the background of period Jade.

An introductory passage describing the origin of the V symbol gives some enlightening information on this symbol of democracy.

Serious students of the arts will find Mr. Nott's latest book a comprehensive annotation detailing the modern methods for determining the date of any given Jade Carving; the manner in which the ancient craftsmen fashioned their creations from the crude Jade rock and a list of American Art institutions, wherein worthy specimens of Chinese Art are on display.

Collectors are sending in each day to secure a copy of the First Edition of this unique work, which promises to rival his previous contributions to the world of literature, both in interest and appeal.

Among the outstanding books written by Mr. Nott are

The Catalogue of Ch'ien Lung Jades, 1927; Chinese Hardstone Carvings, 1930; Imperial Jades in the Summer Palace Collection, 1931; Catalogues of Chinese Jade Carvings on Exhibition, London, Paris, and Berlin (4 volumes) 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935; Chinese Jade Throughout the Ages, 1937; Chinese Jade Carvings XVI-XIX Century (3 volumes) 1938, 1940; Catalogue of Rare Chinese Jade Carvings, 1940-41; The Symbolic Importance of Chinese Jade, 1941; The Geographical Locations of Chinese Jade, 1941; and One Hundred and One Famous Chinese Jades, 1941.

The noted savant and author holds the world-wide reputation of being the leading International Authority on Chinese Jade, and is the only living Occidental who has devoted an entire lifetime to the research of Chinese Jade. During the past fifteen years, he has been responsible for dispelling many of the myths that have grown up around the study of rare Jade through his lectures and publications. His book "Chinese Jade Throughout the Ages" is today held to be the Standard work on the intricate subject of Chinese Jade.

A brief survey of the unsolicited testimonials and press notes on his latest book gives an inkling of the enormous interest aroused in academic and review circles in his "Working and Dating of Chinese Jades."

From the National Library of Peiping, China, famous seat of Chinese learning, comes a letter from its head, from which this quotation is illustrative, "The descriptive catalogue compiled by Dr. Nott serves as a permanent record of his unique knowledge of Chinese Art in general and Chinese Jade in particular. Dr. Nott's profound learning in Chinese Jade is unparalleled. He, therefore, is held in high esteem by Chinese scholars."

Glowing encomiums from such conservative periodicals as the New York Times, the New York Herald Tribune, the Christian Science Monitor, the Connoisseur, and the Gem-mological News, vie with the academic enthusiasm shown by professors at The Detroit Institute of Arts, Harvard University, Fogg Museum of Art, Yale University, Smithsonian Institution, The Washington University, Saint Louis, Princeton University, Cornell University, Mount Holyoke College, The University of Oregon, Museum of Art, Honolulu Academy of Arts, The American Academy of Art, Chicago, The Enoch Pratt Free Library, The Ferdinand Perret Research Library, The University of Minnesota, the heads of The Los Angeles Public Library, The Birmingham Public Library and equally commendatory letters from practically every University and Art Institute of note in America.

Mr. and Mrs. Nott's beautiful residence "Jadeholm" on the north end of the island of Palm Beach, is the most remarkable showplace in America, with its unique collection of Jade. Augmenting the lovely Jade collection are many rare photographs taken by the eminent expert during his travels through China.

A collection of priceless stereopticon slides are included among the many unusual pictures found at Jadeholm. As a collector's item, they are unmatched, and, they prove an admirable foil for his pithy, excellently compounded lectures on various phases of rare Jade.

The visitor to Jadeholm finds the distinguished authority on Jade and his lovely wife casually ensconced amidst a fortune in rare Jade that would excite the envy of a Chinese potentate or an international financier.

Here, among countless rare and historical pieces, this charming couple carry on a normal life that finds them in touch with the activities of the community in which they live, and, working earnestly on another in the series of annotations anent Jade and its phases.

Relative to the many requests that have been sent in to Mr. Nott from the nation's foremost universities for lectures to their art classes, the noted savant has found that a comprehensive tour of the leading colleges will require a tremendous amount of correspondence and an exhaustive study of aerial transport time-tables, to make this tour possible.

"Such a tour, to really accomplish its purpose of reaching the finest of the country's institutions of learning" said Mr. Nott recently, "will take an enormous amount of time and preparation and I hope that the heads of the fine colleges, who have asked me to address their classes, will forgive my inability to grant each of their individual requests, to lecture at a time, that would fit in with their own particular scholastic schedule."

However, he has not given up the hope that a schedule will eventually be arranged, that will make this series of lectures possible.

One of Mr. Nott's foremost ambitions is to inculcate into young America a genuine knowledge and appreciation of the symbolic significance and historic importance of the study of Jade.

His series of lectures at the Norton Art Gallery this past summer proved of surprising interest to a wide circle of visitors, and bore out his oft repeated assertion that the masses will find the subject of historic jade and all of its ramifications of absorbing interest.

To this wide audience, rather than to the dilettante few, the author of "The Working and Dating of Chinese Jades" is dedicating his life in America, with the hope that, as he puts it "America, as the nucleus of a world-wide regeneration after this war, will prove the artistic and intellectual center of the new order."

One of the many fascinating illustrations found in Mr. Stanley Charles Nott's latest treatises on Jade, "An Annotation on The Working and Dating of Chinese Jades," which depicts a scene in "The Jade Cutter's Yard." Mr. Nott photographed this from the original painting, which he has in his extensive collection at home.

BASKING IN THE SUN, beside a sun-kissed swimming pool, and enjoying the invigorating challenge of froth-tipped breakers that march up from the sea, continue to intrigue the social colony in Palm Beach. These always-popular pastimes are the favored hiatus in the colony's intensive war work and other activities.

An abundance of lovely tropical sea-side settings that feature everything from private solaria to such sports as tennis, badminton, handball, water polo, table-tennis, and early morning classes in calisthenics on the beach, make the beaches more interesting than ever before.

Visitors from the dreary winter-time scenes that mark living in northern metropolitan cities, head for the clean invigorating sweep of the sea and the welcome warmth of the sun as soon as they arrive in Palm Beach.

Bronzed youngsters with sparkling eyes, fairly shining with health, and their rejuvenated elders, frolic on the sands and enjoy the diversified offerings of the resort's smart beach clubs.

Among the most interesting of the island's beach clubs is the Sea Spray Beach Club, which begins its twentieth year this season with a number of improvements and its usual distinctive list of members.

Of interest to returning members at the Sea Spray Beach Club is the recent installation of a glass windbreak 100 feet in length and running the entire length of the club's pool.

Tennis devotees have been enjoying the completely made-over courts. The club's swimming pool attains added color and charm with the addition of new tables, chairs and large umbrellas, and the entire club has been redecorated in sunny, cheerful colors.

Members of the Sea Spray Beach Club include Mrs. Woolworth Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kinnard Tod, Mrs. Edward Wyckoff Harris, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsley Loring, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril James Norton, Mr. J. Duncan MacGregor, Jr., Mr. A. Ivan Brickner, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Ballentine, Mr. and Mrs. A. Edward Roys, Mr. Bruno K. Graf, Mr. W. B. Jarvis, Mrs. Doris W. Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Long, Mr. Godfrey Priestler, Mrs. Ruth R. Goodwillie, Mr. and Mrs. J. Field Wardlaw, Mr. and Mrs. B. Davis Crowninshield, Mr. James Brett Stokes, Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Barbour, Mr. Robert Fulton Clarke, Mrs. Charles Henry Hamilton, Mr. John R. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. William Lee McKim, Miss Florence E. Eareckson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Sanderson, Mrs. Helen G. Beykirch, Miss Margaret Grote and Mrs. Jean vom Berge.

Further members include Mrs. S. W. Abbot, Mr. Hugh

A. Bayne, Mr. M. Andrew Cushman, Mrs. Charles Woodall, Mrs. Lawrence Schwab, Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Alfred Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Sweet, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Swinglehurst, Miss Ida Louise Tobey, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Grote, Mrs. Sam H. Harris, Mr. Pat Watson, Mrs. John F. Murray, Colonel James R. Branch, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Van Voorhees, Mr. and Mrs. John Philip Baron, Mr. and Mrs. Bache McE. Whitlock, Mrs. Oscar G. Davies, Miss Clarissa Jeanne Davies, Mrs. James B. Bell, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilcox Taylor, Mr. Arthur L. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. James Knott, Mr. John Daly, Mrs. Jean Bryan, Mrs. Robert Elliott Maxwell, George A. Benney, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst E. Lehmann and Mr. Theodore Hardeen, Jr.

Included among other members are Mrs. K. Maude Jennings, Mrs. Henry Ellsworth Bemis, Mr. Harvey A. Turnure, Mrs. H. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy C. Gross, Miss Bernice Tillman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Sellars, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Waterman, Miss Marian Buckley, Mr. F. C. Strickroot, Mr. and Mrs. Perry John Ten Hoor, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Giblin, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Smallwood, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lloyd Egner, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lennon, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Waelder, Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Wiedner, Miss Dorothy Hager and others.

The always popular Sun and Surf Club has been completely redecorated in a patriotic color motif, and again emerges as one of the most attractive sea-side gathering spots in the resort.

New solaria, splendidly equipped health studios, and other interesting additions augment the large outdoor salt water swimming pool, the picturesque cabanas, sun-bathing decks, such sports as badminton, tennis, table-tennis and water polo and other sports settings and activities at this popular bathing spa.

With the progress of the season, gay umbrellas are added to the elan and color of the beach settings, and members congregate at the Sun and Surf to relax and absorb the health-giving rays of the sun.

This year's lifeguard at the Sun and Surf is a deep-sea diver of renown and an expert in the art of spear-fishing. Many members of the club are finding his knowledge and proficiency in these fields of inestimable help to them on their fishing and swimming parties.

An interesting list of members are enjoying the many sports and entertainment offerings at the Sun and Surf Club this season, with their cabana colony one of the most colorful in years.

Special Exhibit

Texas Sage

Leucophyllum Texanum

"When it's harvest time in Texas and the bloom is on the Sage."

The Leucophyllum is a desert plant, with an attractive silvery foliage.
 It is easy to grow and will thrive
 best at full exposure to the sun.
 This plant is a wondrous sight when covered with violet-purple blossoms.
 Leucophyllums are used extensively for Highway Landscaping in Texas.
 They have proven very successful in plantings along the Gulf of Mexico.

Please come to see our unusual Display.
 You are cordially invited.

Your Water Company joins with all true Americans in expressing deep and profound appreciation for the privileges, endowed by our fore-fathers, of living in a country free from the tyranny of dictatorships and enslavement.

BLESSINGS OF THE FUTURE

As evidence that we honor and cherish this priceless heritage, there is no doubt. In these most recent crucial days of peril our peoples have rallied as one . . . dedicating their ALL to the preservation of LIBERTY, JUSTICE and TOLERANCE to all men.

DOWN THRU THE AGES—

Dating from Cleopatra's time, no regal lady ruled her throne without an array of greyhounds.

Cleo—that bewitching queen, had 1,127 of the fastest the world has known, in her castle on the Nile.

Great was the speed of Cleopatra's greyhounds, but it is doubtful if they could compare with Red Gaze, Texas Tech, Magnificent Mike, and others now racing at the Palm Beach Kennel Club.

The Sun never sets on

It gives you a deep sense of satisfaction when you order a drink "made with Gilbey's Gin" to realize that at the very same minute other men who know fine liquors are sitting at far-away windows with that same familiar Gilbey's bottle beside them. For nearly a century now, the sun has never set on Gilbey's Gin . . . because millions of men have found, as you will, too, that Gilbey's makes a great drink greater!

PALMS EMBLEMATIC OF VICTORY AND NOBILITY

Since time immemorial palms have been emblematic of victory, nobility and superiority and no one viewing the magnificent specimens of palm flora grown in Palm Beach and its vicinity can doubt the fitness of the symbol.

Within the borders of the state of Florida are found the most tropical portions of the United States and its climate and soil are ideally suited for the growth of these beautiful trees used so extensively here for decorative planting.

They are unusually well fitted for highway or avenue planting with the exception of the coconut palms whose leaning habits and heavy fruit disqualify them for this purpose. These very qualities however, add much to the tropical charm of Palm Beach, fringing the shoreline for the length of the island and giving this resort its name. They are closely planted along the lake front sometimes leaning far out over the water and for group planting on private grounds they have no peer.

There are from 1,200 to 1,500 species of palms grown in the world today and of course only a small percentage are cultivated in Florida.

Of the feather-leaved varieties, the coconut and Royal palms are the most highly valued ornamental palms. The royal is used primarily for formal planting. The trunks are massive, smooth gray columns surmounted by a shaft of bright green. Above this is the green feathery head-dress whose leaves are sometimes 12 feet in length. The leaflets are tapering and from 2 to 3 feet long.

The cocos plumosa, a native of Brazil, is a tall growing tree with gracefully arched leaves and a smooth trunk with the bases of old leaf stalks remaining near the top. They blossom and bear fruit annually. This type is excellently adapted to street and park planting and is widely used in soils unsuited to the successful growth of the royals.

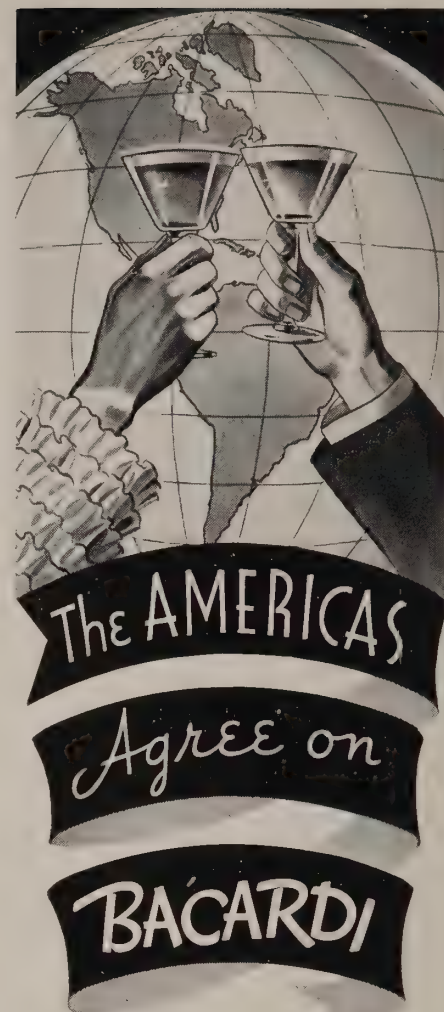

The fish-tail palms are beautiful plants with lacy foliage, highly prized for use in homes and patios. Their name is derived from the peculiar shape of their leaflets.

The areca or cane palm of Madagascar is composed of many slender trunks which grow into a clump of great beauty with light feathery foliage and is in high favor for indoor planting as well as for outdoor landscaping.

The coquita palm or monkey coconut of Chile is a fairly tall tree, its trunk covered with the bases of the old leaf sheaths and its leaves are very large and gracefully arched.

Of the date palms, the Canary Island date is very popular and is especially well adapted to street planting. The trunk is massive with long arched plumage. The South African date is a rapid grower throwing out suckers to result in a tree with many trunks. They are most effective however when thinned out to four or five stems to form a clump. Their leaves are soft and sometimes droop almost to the ground.

In the fan-leaved species of palms the Sabal or cabbage palmetto is most generally known. It is found growing in groups all over the island. The trunks of the young trees are usually covered with old "boots". As the tree grows older these drop off to leave a slightly ridged stem. The fan-shaped foliage is dark green and shiny, from four to five feet long. During the summer months great masses of greenish-white flowers appear and thick clusters of black berries ripen in the winter. That delicacy known as "hearts of palm" comes from this species. The early settlers of Florida used the heart of the tree for food which they ate like cabbage. After the heart has been taken from the tree it dies.

The Washingtonia palm is a great favorite in Florida. It is a native of Southern California, Lower California and Mexico, but strange to say it grows much faster and more luxuriantly here than in its native habitat. This tree often grows to a height of 100 feet, its trunk covered with the bases of the old leaf stalks or the drooping dead leaves, to give it the appearance of the wild palms of old Mexico.

Australian Pines in the Florida Landscape

The Australian Pine so widely grown here, is really not a pine at all or even a distant relation. It is a hardy evergreen conifer, native of New Zealand and of the oriental tropics.

Extensively used for street planting and for group planting on private grounds in Palm Beach, it is one of the most rapidly growing trees in the world as well as very ornamental. Its slender wand-like branches are excellent wind resistants and in a great many instances the trees are planted in rows to give protections to homes and business buildings. They stand the salt air unusually well and are first choice of landscape gardeners for use in shielding the less hardy shrubs and trees planted near them.

All over the resort these beautiful trees grow to great heights, on estates, vacant lots and in filled in ground along the ocean and lake front where they come up voluntarily, to add greatly to the scenic beauty of Palm Beach. Along the streets in many places they have been trimmed in topiary effect resembling Italian cypress, notably in Wells Road and Clarendon Avenue. At Southways, the winter home of Mrs. Theodore Frelinghuysen in Barton Avenue, the trees have been stool trimmed to harmonize effectively with the formal lines of the house.

Along the Gulf Stream Road the pines have been allowed to grow naturally, their graceful branches overlapping at the top to afford a shady drive for motorists. The old wheelchair drive from the recently demolished Royal Poinciana to the Breakers Beach is lined by Australian pines of a great age, their trunks scarred by time and severe winds. These rugged trees were transplanted there about 40 years ago and remain to revive pleasant memories for many of our winter visitors.

As a hedge the pine is usually boxed, sometimes rounded at the corners and ends or graduated in height. The lake front grounds at Royal Palm Way are an excellent example of the effectiveness of this treatment.

The Australians can be transplanted at any age or grown from seed. It is not unusual here to see, one day, a newly completed house standing gaunt and garish, unrelieved by planting, and on the following day to find full grown pines and palms informally grouped and bending with the wind as if they had grown there from seedlings.

Hardly a home stands in Palm Beach today that doesn't boast of at least one of these trees near by, and the islands and great stretches of lake frontage are made beautiful by their thick growth interspersed with palms of various kinds. Looking westward from Palm Beach at sunset, the stirring beauty of the pines silhouetted against a flaming sky is a truly unforgettable sight.

Milady's Thoroughbreds Race at Beautiful Hialeah Park

MORE AND MORE the women of the nation are becoming sports-minded, and their activities have embraced the thoroughbred horse to a degree where the fashionable set finds its chief relaxation in the various phases of racing.

It is no uncommon sight to see milady at Hialeah Park in the early hours of the morning, watching her pet thoroughbred being fed and groomed, then out to the racing strip for a gallop or time trial and back to the stable for the "cooling out" routine.

The feminine viewpoint in the "Sport of Kings" has led to even more colorful racing history, especially in the style motifs, which are most apparent both in the club house or in the grandstand.

Fashionable apparel at the races has long vied with the thoroughbred from the point of view of spectator interest, with fashion shows on the lawn attracting almost as much interest as the parade of the horses to the post.

What effect and influence feminine interest will have on the future of racing is a matter for conjecture. But so far this outstanding sport has improved admirably with the advent of milady into the active racing field.

A perusal of the many stables owned and operated by women bears out this fact, with some of the world-renowned horses wearing the colors of feminine followers of the turf.

Women owners are playing a prominent part in Hialeah racing this winter during the 46-day meeting from January 14 to March 7. Many carry on the tradition of their families which for a generation or more have provided the colorful background of American racing. Others are new to the thrills of seeing a winner come pounding down the stretch but the spirit is the same.

Every branch of the sport has its fascination such as choosing one's colors, either seasonal or for life, which must not duplicate those of anyone else; the cheering of the throngs and the sincere handshakes of congratulations from friends.

Among the frequent visitors at Hialeah is Mrs. Payne Whitney of Red Bank, N. J., often called "The First Lady of the Turf." Mrs. Whitney, one of the most famous of all family racing names, races under the banner of the Greentree Stable. She has a pretentious string of 22 horses stabled at Hialeah, her most outstanding horses being Devil Diver and Swing and Sway. Her colors are pink with black stripes on the sleeves and black cap.

Mrs. Whitney's daughter, Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, owns the Manhasset Stable of which Amphitheater is regarded as outstanding. Her colors are French blue with scarlet stripes.

One of the most prominent is Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane who has the Brookmeade Stable. Her active stable usually comprises some 30 horses which race in silks of white with royal blue cross sashes. In 1934, Mrs. Sloane became the first woman owner in this country to lead the list of purse-winning owners.

Mrs. Peter A. B. Widener of Philadelphia, has racing colors of white with crimson shoulder braces and black cap.

Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps of Roslyn, L. I., commutes from her home "Heamaw" in Palm Beach during the Hialeah meeting. She has nine thoroughbreds listed under the racing name of Wheatley Stable. Purple and yellow are her colors.

Mrs. John C. Clark, wife of the president of the Miami Jockey Club, has raced in colors of grey, with gold sash and sleeves and grey cap. Mrs. Robert Heighe of Bel Air, Md., maintains a stable of nine horses, and her jockeys are attired in green and white silks.

White and blue blocked sleeves distinguish the 20 horses which run in the Woodvale Farm establishment of Mrs. Royce G. Martin of Toledo, Ohio, whose husband is a member of the Ohio State Racing Commission. Her favorites are Our Boots, Haltal and Dorimar. Mrs. DeWitt Page of Bristol, Conn., has seven horses racing this season from her Mae-mere Farm. The names of her horses are prefixed by "Mae."

Mrs. H. Teller Archibald of The Plains, Va., likes Boston Man the best of her four-horse stable. Mrs. Charles Freeman Sheldon of New York and Miami Beach, who races under the name of "Mr. French," a title picked at random to designate her stable, has a favorite in the colt More Than Few which was obtained from Col. E. R. Bradley.

Mrs. Edward S. Moore of Sheridan, Wyo. and Palm Beach, is enthusiastic to the extent of adopting her racing colors for costume effect. She often wears the white and Yale blue which singles out her Circle M Ranch. The Moores who had the thrill of winning Florida's greatest race, The Widener, last winter at Hialeah with Big Pebble, recently purchased a pretentious Slickaway Stock Farm near Lexington, Kentucky.

MR. JOSEPH E. WIDENER,

Great Union is the favorite horse of Mrs. E. Graham Lewis (Elizabeth Arden) of New York. She races under the patriotic colors of red, white sash, blue cuffs, on sleeves and red cap. Mrs. Albert Sabath of Chicago is probably the proudest woman of all, for in her stable is the great Alsab, a gift from her husband. Alsab was the champion two-year-old of the nation in 1941, and a favorite to win such three-year-old classics as the Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah, the Kentucky Derby, Pimlico Preakness and Belmont Stakes. Mrs. Sabath's colors are sky-blue with pink collar, and sleeves with blue bars.

Mrs. Parker Corning of New York also boasts of a top-notch horse, Attention, which defeated Whirlaway last year. Mrs. Harold A. Clark of Chicago, who with her husband owns the Tower Stable, races Tower Maid under her own name. Her colors are black with white stripe and a red "T."

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars of Chicago who winters here, has been the greatest woman purchaser of yearlings at the Saratoga sales. During the past seven years, the owner of the Milky Way Stable has bid in some 110 yearlings for a sum of approximately $643,300, more money than any other woman ever spent on horses.

Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs of Forest Hills, L. I., races 12 horses under the salmon pink colors with emerald green hoops. Her husband, Hirsch Jacobs, was leading trainer of America last year. The Le Mar Stock Farm which has 17 horses at Hialeah, is the property of Mrs. Leo J. Marks of Columbus, Ohio. Orange with blue collar, cuffs and cap distinguish the nine horses raced by Mrs. Selby L. Burch of Washington, D. C.

Other women owners include Mrs. Ralph McIlvain of New York, Mrs. Alice Sherman of New York, Mrs. H. G. Good of Rochester, N. Y., Mrs. Edwin Golos of Elmira, N. Y., Mrs. E. J. Madden, Malaba, L. I.; Mrs. E. T. Miller, Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. Ben F. Whitaker, Dallas, Texas.

MRS. PAYNE WHITNEY,

Member of the famous racing family, shown awaiting the start of the Inaugural Handicap at Hialeah, her 22 horses racing there this season under the colors of the famed Greentree Stable.

The last flock of flamingos to be imported to Hialeah was in 1939 from Chile and the Argentine. Since then the flamingo have been producing their own families.

Ornithologists state the South American birds are a species separate and distinct from the original flock, which came from Cuba. The South American flamingos lay their eggs on the ground, due to the fact their breeding range is on a tideless and practically rainless shore, while the Cuban species build column-like nests. The foremost ornithologists of the country are intensely interested to learn if the Cuban flamingos will mate with the South American species. In the main, they doubt it.

A rarity in the breeding colony of the flamingos at Hialeah during the 1941 season was the fact one nest had two eggs. Something hitherto unprecedented. Flamingos lay but once a year. At Hialeah they nest in two groups and with this one exception they never laid more than one egg.

Mortality among the Hialeah flamingos is very low. There has never been more than three deaths in one year among the adult birds, seldom two, usually one.

Fashions in The Tropics

Reminiscent of the beautiful formal garden dresses of the Old South, is this charming embroidered white organdy creation. Fish scale sequins add glitter to the embroidered pattern and narrow ruffles finish the sleeves and revers at the neckline. The uneven hemline is a new note; it is longer in back than in the front. The dainty finishing touch is a pale blue ribbon belt and large bow. Part of this ensemble, which is at the Mme. Mogabgab Salon, is the matching parasol of the white organdy; like the dress it is embroidered and be-ruffled.

FOX HEADS AND PARROTS: Also eagles, flying ducks, sailfish and ostriches, fraternize at cocktail time in the resort this winter. This menagerie, which includes other animals, birds and fish, comprises the sparkling cocktail jewelry, exploited by Greenleaf and Crosby. And, you can pile on as much of it as you like on your lapel, cuffs, turban and pockets.

WHAT HAVE YOU GOT TO LOSE? Ungainly bumps and bulges, inches in the wrong places! The Elizabeth Arden Salon has a system of electric body massage which does away with all of these; reduces your measurements, just where you want to be reduced. And, adds vim and vigor!

BOW TIES ARE BACK: Those tricky little bows which were considered so dashing in the gay nineties are back in circulation. Any day now on Worth Avenue you can see the smartest dressed men flaunting a gaily colored bow tie as the piece de resistance of an otherwise conventional outfit. Charvet et Fils have an exclusive selection of these nifties.

TOYA ENSEMBLE: Accessories make the costume, even in resort clothes, and Bonwit Teller suggest sandals, handbag and calot or turban of embroidered toya as the smartest of smart accents. These matching bits of chic come in a variety of gay color mergers.

HENS AND PIGS: Oversized ham and egg plates are grand acquisitions to patio and other outdoor informal dining. These huge china plates have wide green borders with center motifs of hens and pigs. They are part of a clever assortment of outdoor cooking and serving equipment at the Alta Carter Shop.

HIGH ANKLE STRAPS: Are supposed to lend a slenderizing effect to the ankles and Frank Bros. have an alluring array of these new striking footnotes. For daytime, there are dashing sandals in white linen with white-dotted red or poudre blue heels; for evening, hand-tooled gold or silver kid.

FRENCH PERFUME: Those rare, hard-to-get scents, such as Patou's "Joy," Lelong's "N," Caron's Bellodgia, Byzance's "Gardenia," can be detected around Palm Beach wherever you go. The Everglades Pharmacy has an enviable collection of these much-sought-after perfumes.

BLAZER STRIPES: For swimming or bronzing, the all-wool bathing shorts and matching "throw-over" shirts in such effective combinations as navy, maroon and white, are now the choice of fastidious men. Finchley's have these—also some dashing swim shorts of Batik cottons in gay oranges and blues.

VITAMIN PRINTS: And now you wear your vitamins! Carrots, apples, red cabbage, lettuce and so on, in natural color are the decorative motif for clever casual clothes at Peck and Peck. You can match or mix your own vegetables and fruit from blouses, slacks, dresses and hats.

ANIMATED JEWELRY: Is a conversation piece in any gathering and Milton Fuller's cleverly jeweled butterfly with transparent, fluttering metal wings is the correct retort. Sapphires, Mexican opals, rubies and diamonds are the stones which furnish the sparkle.

PINK PATIO: If you want to be ultra-style conscious, you'll refurbish your patio in pink, for that is the latest color note for smart patios and terraces, according to Worrell's, interior decorators and designers of exclusive furniture. With the pink upholstery, choose wood or wrought iron with a moonglow finish.

SILVER EPAULETS: You don't have to be a soldier to wear epaulets these days. At Mme. Mogabgab's Salon, there is an exquisite evening gown of pale blue marquisette with silver braid and bead epaulets and bodice trimming. The skirt is gracefully full and the merest wisps of nothing in marquisette, fashion the sleeves.

A LITHE LINE: Is a grand method of reducing with fun. This "lithe line" by Helena Rubinstein looks just like a skipping rope; it is made of elasticized fabric with wooden handles. You can take it to the beach with you and exercise, skip rope or dance; does wonderful things for your waistline.

PIQUE FOR PLAY: Something definitely different in play suits; the white pique bra and shorts, topped by a smartly styled dress of the same material. This is among the exclusive sports costumes at Best and Company. The dress features a big flower print as the highlight of the skirt decoration.

BEZIQUE: Is one of the popular new games in Palm Beach this winter. And, the Anchorage has a veritable rumpus room full of games from which to make a choice; from complicated versions to nice quiet games that your grandmother would enjoy. Others include bonanza, gin rummy, tripoley, snake's eyes and the old reliables, backgammon, chess and checkers.

BLACK BUTTERFLIES: Huge black etched-like butterflies, the size of your hand, against a yellow background! This unique print is the latest addition to casual clothes at Saks. One model is fashioned with a black shantung skirt and wide belt, topped with the butterfly print blouse. Another makes use of the print for the entire frock; it is styled along the shirtmaker lines.

The Sporting Scene At Palm Beach

WITH MID-JANUARY at hand, sports activity in the resort has taken a decided spurt, especially in the fields of golf, tennis and fishing. From the spectators' point of view, boxing under the auspices of the West Palm Beach Legion and dog racing at the Palm Beach Kennel club have also attracted large crowds of devotees. The tri-weekly polo matches at Gulf Stream are also offering some of the country's outstanding mallet wielders in action.

Tomorrow sees the start of the annual Governor's Cup tourney over the famed Everglades club course, which is a match play affair under handicap. Winston Guest, noted polo player and now serving in the U. S. Navy, won the event last year after tying twice with Maurice Fatio.

The Old Guard Society of Palm Beach Golfers pried the lid of the tournament season with two events, the first of which was the Old Guard Best Ball event.

The fine clay courts of the famed Bath and Tennis Club are the scene of much spirited play in the weekly round robins.

Joe A. Bailey and Gilbert Drake were the winners of the finals play when they hung up a 4 and 3 victory over the team of J. E. McAuliffe and R. W. Woolworth.

Winners of the consolation finals were T. Preston Davis and J. A. Mason, who defeated H. H. Brooker and J. F. Manning, 2 and 1 over the 18-hole route.

In the second Old Guard tourney, a handicap affair, Hal C. Rich, well known sportsman from Palm Beach and Bassett, Va., emerged the winner when he defeated James A. Howard, of Framingham, Mass., by the tally of 4 and 3.

Tommy Goodwin, prominent New York tournament golfer and defending champion, shared honors with W. A. Pagan, West Palm Beach linkster for the medal round in the first day's play of the 35th Annual Lake Worth Tournament over the famous Palm Beach Golf Course, each scoring a 72.

Pagan scored three birdies and three fives on the out-nine, but faltered with a six on the 10th when he drove two balls out of bounds. He played sub-par golf on the 12th, 14th, but went over with a five on the 16th to chalk up a 37 for the back nine.

Goodwin took an extra putt on the first, went over on the eighth but shortened it a stroke on the sixth and ninth for birdies to score a 35 on the first nine. On the in-round he equalled par for four holes, but holed out fives on the 14th, 16th and 18th to match Pagan's 37.

J. A. Mason, Gulf Stream, registered a 74, and Truman Lifsey, sharpshooting West Palm Beach linkster, made it in

75. George L. Trescott, 3rd, of Charleston, S. C., scored a 77 and Drew M. Johnston, of Oil City, Pa., who once abandoned a finals match to plunge into the surf and save a man's life, on the same course, tallied a 79.

Summary—W. A. Pagan, West Palm Beach, 35-37—72; Tom Goodwin, New York, 35-37—72; J. A. Mason, Gulf Stream, 39-35—74; Truman Lifsey, Jr., West Palm Beach, 37-38—75; George L. Prescott, Charleston, S. C., 39-38—77; Drew M. Johnston, Oil City, Pa., 40-39—79; E. E. Lehmann, New York, 43-37—80; George Rasmussen, Jr., 37-43—80; Allan K. Wylie, Winnetka, Ill., 39-41—80; J. H. Howard, Framingham, Mass., 40-41—81; Powell Crichton, New York City, 41-40—81; Hal C. Rich, Bassett, Va., 39-43—82; Paul G. Cushman, Greenville, S. C., 40-42—82; Tom Powers, New York, 45-37—82; John Cushman, Greenville, S. C., 41-42—83; L. R. Sikes, West Palm Beach, 40-43—83; B. G. Rae, West Newton, Mass., 42-42—84; S. M. Paterson, West Newton, Mass., 43-41—84; H. S. Marcy, Fitchburg, Mass., 41-43—84; Jere Whitson, Cookeville, Tenn., 44-42—86; J. H. Sadlmayr, Great Neck, L. I., 44-44—88; C. B. Waterman, Newark, N. J., 46-44—90; J. K. Graham, Newport, R. I., 47-43—90; Charles McAdams, Greenwich, Conn., 46-44—90; R. C. Maxwell, Princeton, N. J., 45-45—90; Marshall Heminway, New York, 42-49—91; T. H. Halton, Jr., Philadelphia, 47-44—91; Hugh L. Willoughby, 3d, Winchester, Va., 47-46—93; C. B. Darwin, Cookeville, Tenn., 49-48—97; Richard Kelly, West Orange, N. J., 53-49—102; Dana Steele, Daytona, 43-37—80; Ed Kenny, Palm Beach, 42-42—84.

The Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests, started its 35th anniversary golf tournament at the Golf Club January 17 with a large entry list headed by R. P. Clayberger of New York as president.

The headquarters of the group is established at the Breakers Hotel and the program calls for a series of medal and match-play golf events. The annual banquet and prize awarding will be held the evening of January 23 at the Breakers. The eleven-day trip will be concluded when the party returns to New York the evening of January 26.

This season's tennis activity at the present moment is centering around the regular round robin play at the famed Bath and Tennis Club, the Breakers Courts and the Everglades Club.

Annual club championships will be held at the latter two clubs in February while the annual professional championship at the Breakers courts will be supplanted by a tournament to be held at Howard Park, West Palm Beach.

A professional tennis tourney attracting the country's best will also be held at the same place, February 9 to 15.

Mrs. Johnson Gensler and A. Parker Bryant, well known resort tennis players, won the extra set playoff in the recent Bath and Tennis Club round robin to take top honors, defeating Mrs. A. C. Rayner and John Urqhart, 6-3.

Mrs. Rayner and Urqhart were the winners of the first group of six teams with 21 games won and 9 lost, while Mrs. Gensler and Bryant won the second group honors over five teams, with 23 games won and 9 lost.

Summary, Group one—Mrs. A. C. Rayner and John Urqhart 21 games won and 9 lost; Mrs. Robert Hasler and Spencer Love, 20 won and 10 lost; Miss Jeanne White and tial amateur-professional round robin of the season played on the Breakers tennis courts with seven teams participating.

E. Tinsley Halter and Frank Voigt of the Everglades Club emerged the winners in point play, taking 24 games and losing 12. In second position were John Vanneck and Russell Leslie, who tallied 19 won and 17 lost, while third position went to three teams who tied with 18 games won and 18 lost.

Others playing with scores were Langford Harris and James Burns of the Seaspray Beach Club, Robert H. Hasler and Dan Watson, Breakers Courts, and S. J. Love and Ed Kenny of the Sun and Surf, each 18 games won and 18 lost; Emil Schmidt and James Kenney, Everglades Club, 17 won and 19 lost; W. J. Armfield and Dave Feron, 15 won and 21 lost.

A capacity crowd of polo enthusiasts line the west side of the famous Phipps Fields at Gulf Stream to watch an action match between the Gulf Stream Club and the Hurricanes.

These beautiful polo fields rank among the best in the country and are the scene of tri-weekly contests on Sunday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

Listed on the rival teams are such noted players as Michael Phipps, former captain of the Yale polo team, and Stephen "Laddie" Sanford, both of whom have been members of cup defense teams, and have played in international matches all over the world.

Social Colony Active in Variety of War Work

THIS SEASON has marked the transformation of the Palm Beach social colony into a splendidly organized center of war effort. Thousands of dollars are being raised for the armed forces of the United States through the efforts of its leaders and the co-operation of hotel and resident colony. The feminine members of the resort have turned out almost enmasse to enlist in the emergency aid and canteen classes sponsored by Volunteers for Victory and the American Red Cross.

Beginning with the organization of Volunteers for Victory and the diversified activities entered into by its leaders and personnel, the resort has witnessed a series of developments brought about through the active interest of the entire resort membership.

Where in former times the tropical patios and sunny terraces of the island's lovely homes were settings for gay social gatherings, this season finds members of the cottage colony and hotel contingent gathering at sea-side and lake-front villas, and at the resort's private clubs, to formulate plans for war work in its many phases.

The Everglades Club, always the barometer for the colony's mood and nucleus for the resort's social and civic activities, has, through its president, Mr. Hugh Dillman, allied itself with the community's patriotic drives, with many of the outstanding war campaigns having their inception in the office of this popular resort leader.

Prominent among patriotic movements instigated in Palm Beach is Aid America, Inc., an organization conceived and developed by Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr. With the help of her committee, she raised a considerable sum of money for the soldiers, sailors and marines at the front through a series of Patriotic Parties.

Over one thousand dollars has already been raised through the efforts of Aid America, Inc. in Palm Beach, and this money is being used to purchase cigarettes, tobacco and other articles for the American soldiers, sailors and marines at the fighting front. Mr. Wiley Reynolds, Jr., secretary-treasurer for Aid America, Inc., is arranging for the transfer of funds raised here through the proper channels in Washington direct to the fighting front.

Not the least of the work done by the various leaders in the resort is found in the determined efforts being put forth to keep up the morale of the community—an effort that dominates the entire social pattern this season.

Cottage colony activities are centered almost exclusively around this patriotic pattern. The island's exclusive clubs have re-arranged their schedules to make war work and community morale the basic theme of every social gathering.

Lovely young feminine members of the social colony dash from Red Cross emergency classes to Volunteers for Victory canteen lessons, with all of the dash and elan that formerly marked their flitting about from party to party. Their distinguished elders have augmented the always impressive list of civic work done in Palm Beach this season by devoting the greater part of their time to down-to-earth war work.

There is nothing of the dilettante in the social colony's attitude toward this business of helping Uncle Sam to win the war. Even in interspersing their war work with relaxation, they manage to inculcate the spirit of patriotism into the island's luncheon, cocktail, and dinner gatherings. Mrs. Topping's Aid America, Inc., has helped to make every social gathering productive of appreciable sums of money for helping men at the fighting front.

Members of the younger set and distinguished matrons meet on common ground this season to prepare themselves in every possible way for portent days that face America.

Outstanding in the resort's war effort is the work done by the Volunteers for Victory. The local chapter of this far-reaching patriotic movement was organized at the beginning of the season, following a meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry R. Rea.

Then it was decided that the Volunteers for Victory should act as a clearing-house for entertainment, not only for soldiers at Morrison Field, but transient men in uniform. The committee also decided that their organization would cooperate in every way to promote National Defense through building up and creating home defense.

Officers for this organization, which has been active in furnishing entertainment and a healthful background of interests for men in uniform in the Palm Beach area, are Mrs. Henry R. Rea, chairman; Mr. Hugh Dillman, president; Mrs. Maitland Alexander, secretary and treasurer.

Mr. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld is chairman of the Roll Call and War Fund; Mrs. Edward R. Shearson is chairman of First Aid; Mrs. Clegg Monroe, chairman of Knitting; Mrs. Robert D. Huntington, chairman for Nurses Aids.

Entertainment and Recreation is headed by Mrs. Alexander H. Rutherford and Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller; Transportation is in charge of Mr. Joseph F. Gunster, assisted by Mr. Alfred G. Kay. The Board of Advisers has Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock as chairman; Major and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton are in charge of defense.

Volunteers for Victory are continuing to contribute generously of their time, efforts, and money to help maintain camp morale in the army camps in this area, and to further emergency war work of various types in Palm Beach.

Work of members of Volunteer for Victory in helping to raise $47,594.99—100 per cent over the Palm Beach quota for the American Red Cross—is but one of the innumerable phases of their combined war efforts this season.

Among the latest of their home defense efforts is establishment of a Canteen Division, with classes in this vital branch of defense, to be held daily at the Palm Beach High School building.

Response to the Volunteers for Victory call to form this canteen class proved overwhelming—with an actual waiting list of many names, as these classes are under way.

Prominent figures in this latest move for home defense were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman, Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Mrs. Robert D. Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Gunster, Mrs. Alexander McKinlock, Col. Harold A. Braman, Mrs. Clegg Monroe, Mrs. E. Hope G. Slater, Mr. Charles Alexander, Mrs. Cyrus Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld, Mrs. Margaret Emerson, Mrs. Edward Shearson and Mrs. Antoinette Johnson.

Instructors for the Canteen Service are Miss Clara May Phelps, a graduate of Louisiana Tech, and Mrs. Merab Lukens, well known canteen worker and a graduate of Ohio State.

Classes in the use of splints and bandages, artificial respiration, control bleeding, proper transportation and other vital instruction, are being carried on with Martin M. Barrows, Red Cross instructor of the Palm Beach Fire Department, in charge of the course.

Those of the Palm Beach colony who have completed the standard course include Mrs. Ellsworth C. Warner, Mrs. George Stevenson Fenton, Mrs. Bassett W. Mitchel, Mrs. Walter S. Leeds, Mrs. Antoinette Johnson, Mrs. R. B. Meredith, Mrs. Blaine Webb, Mrs. Clegg Monroe, Mrs. George A. Malcolm, Miss Charlene M. Erbsstein, Mrs. Helen A. Brukenfeld, and Miss Freda K. Marx.

Among members of the American Red Cross classes in first aid are Mrs. Pierre Barbey, Mrs. Frank Quigley, Mrs. Robert Huntington, Mrs. Charles Harding, Mrs. Milton Fuller, Mrs. James M. Ballentine, Mrs. Oscar C. Chopin, Mrs. Frederick Johnson, Mrs. Paulding Foskett, Mrs. Edward R. Shearson, Mrs. Frederick Hattersley, Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld, Mrs. William Russell Huntley, Mrs. Roscoe Tate Anthony, Mrs. Clifford Vail Brokaw, Mrs. Ernest G. Howes, Mrs. Gordon Hammersley, Mrs. McAlpin Bell, Miss Helen Fairfax Farrell, Mrs. F. Halpine Smith, Mrs. Berlin Griffin, Mrs. John C. King, Mrs. Marion Sims Wyeth, and Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock.

This group met recently as a class to receive instructions on methods of resuscitating a drowning person. Mrs. B. B. Sory enacted the role of victim, and Mrs. Fred J. Schultz, as instructor.

Enrolled also in the Red Cross first aid class are Mrs. Ward Ames, Miss Nina M. Avery, Mrs. Milton E. Blum, Mrs. C. Henry Buhl, Mrs. M. D. Condit, Mrs. Leonard Ettleson, Mrs. W. B. Gray, Mrs. Whitney F. Howes, Mrs. Murray Hoffman, Mrs. John Randolph Hopkins, Mrs. Bernard Francis Husson, Mrs. Frank Kolb, Mrs. Henry Lilenthal, Miss Betty Munson, Mrs. John B. O'Day, Mrs. A. C. Rayner, Mrs. A. B. Rittenour, Mrs. Edward U. Roddy, Jr., Mrs. Jack W. Salisbury, Mrs. Flynn Stewart, Mrs. Harold W. Sweatt, Mrs. Charles J. Trevail, Mrs. J. Terry West, Mrs. J. H. Witman and Mrs. E. J. Woodward.

Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., chairman and founder of Aid America, Inc., with the help of her committee, has made helping Uncle Sam a seven-day-a-week job in Palm Beach.

Prominent among officers and sponsors of Aid America, Inc., are Mr. Charles A. Munn, Miss Mary Munn, Mrs. Ritchey Farrell, Captain Alastair Mackintosh, Mr. Wiley Reynolds, Jr., Mr. Milton Holden and Mr. John Robert Powers.

A succession of patriotic parties, held at the island's principal gathering spots, has raised a considerable sum through Aid America, Inc., with a number of voluntary contributions by members of the social colony augmenting their funds for the soldiers and sailors.

In making her appeal to the Palm Beach colony at the inception of Aid America, Mrs. Topping said: "Aid America is designed to remind us all that our armed forces need every bit of support we can give them. We eventually hope to make this organization function seven days a week through the cooperation of various business establishments in Palm Beach; for, since this war has been brought to our very doorsteps, we must make the business of helping Uncle Sam a full-time job."

Palm Beach is furnishing a splendid example of organized community effort and patriotic spirit.

Wealth of Treasures In Resort Portrait Galleries

OVERFLOWING with a wealth both actual and artistic, the Breakers Portrait Gallery and the Palm Beach Biltmore Galleries are open for the season. Open to the public since the day before Christmas, the official opening of the Breakers Hotel, the Portrait Gallery has been host to many visitors and patrons come to view the rich paintings of world-famous artists, and the superb sculpture by the Gallery's founder, Alice Littig Siems. The opening of the Palm Beach Biltmore Galleries also coincides with the opening of the hotel which houses them, January 20.

Among the outstanding works of art by top-flight "names" of international importance, the exquisite and deeply-conceived heads and busts created by Alice Littig Siems command immediate attention. Among the wealth of beauty and accomplishment in these pale, quiet rooms, the life and delineations of character which Mrs. Siems instills in her portrait sculpture are enlivening qualities in the Gallery. Besides her illustrated and well known bust of Lorado Taft, a fine example of an artist's treatment of the adult, visitors to the Gallery will find great interest in the sculpted head of a child, Linda Frost, done this past summer. Here, in the sculpting of the young daughter of an official of Lloyd and Lloyd, London, Mrs. Siems has caught and made positive the feeling of what the little girl's character will be when she becomes a grown woman and, even, an old woman. In another head, that of young Roderick Rockefeller Gable, Mrs. Siems has shown her remarkable ability to get into her work the essence of childhood.

Other and acclaimed portrait sculpture of the artist include busts of Doctors Julius Stieglitz, James Mullembach and Anton Carlson of the University of Chicago. The sculpting of General E. C. Ashton, Chief of Staff in the Canadian Army, and of Hon. R. B. Hanson, M. P., K. C. are also among the commissions of this artist. Great strength and character are in her portrait, now in the Portrait Gallery of the Breakers Hotel, of that famed personage, Sir Charles Ross of Scotland.

In commenting on Mrs. Siems' portrait bust of Carl Akeley of the University of South Dakota, the French "Revue du Vrai et du Beau" has to say: "The firm and supple modeling proves absolute mastery and gives to this bust an intensity of life and a force of expression rarely realized." Applicable to every commission she executes, this statement may be safely called a summary, in brief, of the unusual artistry, depth, and abounding life found in the work of Alice Littig Siems, sculptor.

Difficult in the extreme is the selecting from the great names assembled in these Galleries of several of particular interest now showing. The frontispiece of this issue speaks for itself of the striking work of the Palm Beach artist, J. Duncan MacGregor, Jr., who has several portraits hanging in the Breakers Portrait Gallery besides the lovely painting of Mrs. Nicholas Ridgley DuPont.

Of interest to many of Palm Beach's social set is the work of Prince Serge Yourievitch, whose bust of Williams Burden will be especially noticed this season. Later he and his daughter will have a special exhibition of drawings at Palm Beach Biltmore Galleries.

Pictured is the wonderful portrait of Mrs. Alexander Cameron, by Wayman Adams, in which all character and repose of this handsome, elderly subject is expressed against her opulent background. Like the following, it too may be seen in the Breakers Portrait Gallery.

One of the greatest sculptors in the world, Antonio Sallemi, is showing three portraits, one of them a terra cotta bust of great power. Represented in a score of museums and world-acclaimed, Louis Betts' work will cause immense study and praise from those viewing his work. And it will be with a thrilling interest that art lovers examine the representative compositions of Leopold Seyffert.

In an honorary class by himself is Carle Blenner, whose portrait of Mrs. Barret Blanchard will leave no dispute as to his excellence. "Sylvia Kress" and "Mr. Kellar" will enchant those fond of Howard Chandler Christy's work—and who is not?

Albert Delmont Smith's oil of Prince Colonel Lwoff will be interesting to many not only because it is a portrait excellently painted but because of the artist's being well known to a large number of the Palm Beach Colony. Both Mr. Smith and his wife, the former Elinor Lee Sloane, are a familiar couple to residents of the resort.

Causing much comment and interest is Channing Hare's portrait of that smart young woman of Palm Beach, Miss Antoinette Johnson. Since it was hung the other day, both artists and laymen have commented on the aliveness of the work.

The idea of many riches in a little room is amazingly carried out in the Breakers Portrait Gallery—to the extent that within a few days Wheeler Williams is sending some of his charming dolphins for one of the Gallery's windows. Also important, there is the collection of some of the very best miniatures available in the country. The artists of these miniatures are represented by the Portrait Gallery and one may, if he wishes, choose the work he likes best and have his own miniature done. And then there is the life-size pigmy elephant carved of wood by Cornelia Chapin besides the wood carvings done by Gleb Deuriginisky, which have a way of intriguing visitors.

In the spacious Palm Beach Biltmore Galleries are enough objects of true art to keep an art-lover enchanted for many a studied hour. There the one-man exhibitions are bound to excite an interest with such showings as Dimitri

Mrs. Alexander Cameron by Wayman Adams, one of the outstanding portraits in the Breakers Portrait Gallery.

Romanowsky's famous nude, his flower paintings and portraits. The lacquer screens done by Max Kuhne stand five and six feet high, have, at least, three sections; and are both practical and of rare beauty.

Of outstanding importance are the eleven compositions just received from George Elmer Browne. His five paintings include the widely-acclaimed one of his wife. The six watercolors are, for the most part, scenes in Spain.

Carle Blenner is also represented in the Biltmore Galleries by four of his typically first-rate portraits and several of his flower paintings for which he is praised so highly.

Besides the dolphins, over at the Portrait Gallery in the Breakers Hotel, Wheeler Williams is also represented at the Biltmore Galleries by some of his fine garden sculpture.

It is an understatement to say that these galleries are adequately represented in the field of etching and drawing. For there are works by John Taylor Arms, of whom it was said recently in "Print": "Arms is a phenomenon . . . an exception among etchers . . . and in the meantime he manages to execute the most minutely-etched plates ever attempted in American printmaking . . . The spiritual quality which underlies his etchings springs from the affection which he feels for his fellow man as well as for his own work." In this artist's work one can see that Arms was trained to be an architect for in his things is a strong appeal in the physical beauty of mass, proportion, and balance.

Besides the really great names in the world of art already mentioned, there are also represented in either one or the other of the galleries such artists as Paul Manship, whose bronze Celestial Sphere is such a painstaking work of art; John Young Hunter, whose remarkable, large portrait of Peggy Wood, the actress, is so popular; Jane Freeman; Edward Wallace; Louis Betts; and Clarence Busch, among a long list of world renowned artists.

A refreshing, unusual display, another world, really, awaits the art lover in one of the Palm Beach Biltmore displays . . . a deep-sea room. A whole room is given over to the amazing watercolors by Else Bostleman, of deep-sea tropical flowers. These uncommon compositions have an exciting quality and well they might for they were achieved by the artist while she was undersea in a diver's costume. At actual risk of life and limb, Else Bostleman accompanied the famous Dr. Beebe on some of his noteworthy expeditions to accomplish her aim, that of getting in true colors and accurately drawing these little-known flora of the deep. The results are there in the deep-sea room at the Biltmore, in a host of beautifully done pictures which have all the feeling of the mystery and unknown of the bottom of the sea. To further the room's romantic atmosphere are some marine sculpture by Wheeler Williams and a gorgeous folding screen which carries out the spirit of the exhibition.

Although previously mentioned, it does bear further emphasis . . . George Elmer Browne's technically and artistically excellent "Portrait of My Wife." Although the man-in-the-street might rightly connect Browne's name with that of the best in landscape painting, there is in the Biltmore Galleries the coveted painting of Mrs. Browne which more than bespeaks the artist's ability: this portrait is substantial, composed, and has an abiding sense of life.

There is bound to be a storm of interest and speculation this season also, over John Young-Hunter's oil impression of that dependable, whimsical actress, Miss Peggy Wood. So many-sided a character is this woman that several of her personal friends who have already come in to study her likeness find themselves returning for further visits. "How Young You Look" is the title of Miss Wood's currently popular auto-biography in which her life, personal and theatrical, is delightfully set down. In John Young-Hunter's impression one may see how "young" indeed the subject looks.

With each piece in the galleries selected, because it is a significant one, there is a tremendous amount of artistic creation of which a well known craftsman in art has to say: "Perhaps, most of all, it depends on the receptivity of the artist whose eyes can photograph a scene but who must, in the secret dark-room of his soul, then develop it with long labor before ever it can bear the light of day as a significant work of art."

In each gallery are many such works.

It should be pointed out that, interestingly enough, Howard Chandler Christy's portrait of Sylvia Kress, in private life Mrs. Francis Mallon, has already caused much comment among both laymen and artists.

Bywater Lodge Is Setting For Vital Youth Movement

A fitting setting for one of the most important youth movements in America, Bywater Lodge, the former site of "Bethesda By the Sea", and one of Palm Beach's best known and best loved landmarks, has been chosen by the Students' International Union as their club-house and meeting place.

Here, in this lovely old building, amid the tropical beauty of the lake front, the club meets under the sponsorship of the island's famous "Palm Beach Round Table", to broaden its scope of knowledge through a series of timely and informative lectures and the opportunity afforded them to discuss questions of national and international import with prominent members of the Round Table.

According to Mrs. Alexander M. Hadden, President of the Palm Beach Round Table, and nationally known leader in youth movements, the local branch of the Students' International Union is showing great promise, since its organization here.

Their club-house is known to the old guard in Palm Beach as the site of the original Bethesda By the Sea Church, which was originally a part of the old Cluett Estate, and has derived its present name from the original Bywater Lodge, the name of the Cluett residence on the lake front.

In years past, this picturesque old church could only be reached by water, with the present lake trail not yet in existence and the lake front on either side of the Cluett estate, an impenetrable jungle.

Today's "Bywater Lodge" has been utilized as a reading room and an assembly hall, with the tower room used as a library and a tiny kitchenette installed to furnish the necessities for afternoon teas and other social assemblages.

The young people of the club meet regularly each Saturday and many of their meetings are enlivened by absorbing discussions relative to various topical and educational books such as the recently acquired edition of Gunther's "Inside Europe", "Inside Latin-America" and other stimulating brochures that form a part of the Bywater Lodge library.

Mrs. Hadden and other leading figures in the Palm Beach Round Table movement encourage the members to review the important books of the day and to report on them to the rest of the organization for discussion and questions.

Another important phase of the youth movement at Bywater Lodge is the opportunity afforded the students to ask questions regarding important events in this country and throughout the world, as various of the Round Table lecturers and leading members join them for informal discussion. Classes in Spanish conversation are also held.

Students from the Palm Beach Junior College will have opportunity to meet a list of distinguished Round Table speakers this season. Besides Vilhjalmur Stefansson and Dr. Ricardo Alfaro who have already spoken, there will be presented Dr. Alfred Noyes on "Retreat From Reality"; Honorable Hugh Wilson, former ambassador to Germany; T. R. Ybarra, "Friends and Foes in Latin America"; Admiral Yates Sterling, Jr., former Chief of Staff of the U. S. Fleet; William Y. Elliott, Arthur Menken and Henry C. Wolfe.

In speaking of the significance of the youth movement sponsored by the Round Table, Mrs. Hadden called attention to innumerable examples of the far-reaching results derived from the meetings of the Students' International Union, which were formerly held in Geneva, Switzerland.

"Since the day my husband and I gave up a trip around the world to help a group of American and European honor students organize the Students' International Union in Geneva eighteen years ago," said Mrs. Hadden, "there has never been a moment's regret at our decision to make this movement a part of our lives and there have been innumerable opportunities to observe what these meetings have accomplished in various countries today."

Relative to the type of students who are chosen for these international conferences, Mrs. Hadden pointed with pride to many outstanding examples of their membership, who were now in key positions to influence public opinion and to aid the general public in constructive thinking.

Helen Hiatt, noted N. B. C. commentator is another graduate of this institute and Mrs. Hadden mentioned many young men and women who are now in diplomatic positions throughout the world and whose influence will be felt when this war is over and America is the nucleus for a world-wide re-organization.

"For instance" said the distinguished head of the Palm Beach Round Table "we had in our co-operative camp in the Berkshire Hills at Hillcrest School, Salisbury, Connecticut, the daughter of a Chinese general, the son of a Czecho-Slovakian statesman, the son of one of Argentina's leading figures and representatives of almost every nation in the world. These youngsters from the far corners of the earth are the leaders of tomorrow, and in bringing them together, the Students' International Union lays the groundwork for a world of common understanding and mutual respect in the near future."

The camp in the Berkshire Hills was selected as the site for the meetings, formerly held at Geneva, Switzerland and later at Williams College, to give the students the ideal outdoor environment for their annual assemblage.

Under the leadership of Sir Norman Angell, famed international leader, this year the Institute of World Affairs brought together in its seminars, 26 university students from Austria, Canada, Chile, China, France, Italy, Poland, Spain, Switzerland and the United States.

The Union is doing a splendid work in aiding refugee students now in this country. Of the 26 scholarships to be awarded next summer, seven will be given to students from South America, Mexico and Cuba.

Proof of the efficacy of the annual meetings is found in number of its alumni who are quietly at work throughout the world, strengthening the moral fiber of their fellow-men, guiding public opinion out of hysteria and emotion into an understanding of the basis of a durable peace. These alumni are graduates from universities in the United States, South America, Europe and the Far East, the recipients of scholarships from the Students' International Union for its annual institute of world affairs. They now occupy important posts in diplomacy, broadcasting, law, education, journalism and business.

An interesting phase of each year's activities of the Palm Beach Round Table is found in the fact that membership dues and contributions to the Round Table in this resort help to provide scholarships for chosen university students to attend the summer Institute of World Affairs at Salisbury, Connecticut, under the direction of Sir Norman Angell, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize.

Next summer will find this world-wide representation of fine young minds again meeting in the Berkshires for a five week conference to study the major problems facing this generation.

The Palm Beach Junior College students are blessed with an unusual opportunity to participate in a movement that will enrich their minds and broaden their scope of international knowledge to a degree impossible to attain except in the country's leading colleges, through the opportunity offered them at Bywater Lodge of meeting and hearing some of the world's leading authorities, talking with them and questioning them on subjects of world-wide importance.

The Palm Beach Round Table, has become a powerful force, not only in this community but throughout the nation, with its brilliant list of visiting speakers and its well directed efforts to reach a vast audience through co-operating with the youth of the community and influencing every section of the country through its nationally representative membership.

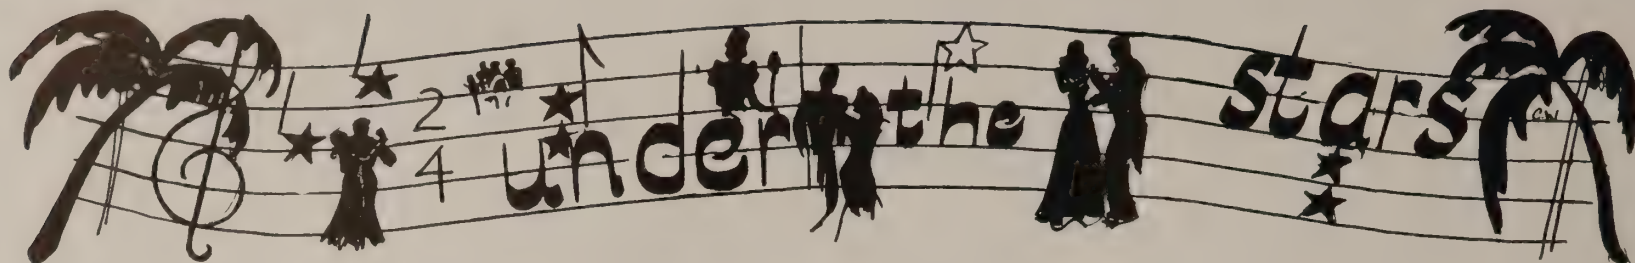

Officers of the Round Table are: Honorary President, Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury; President, Mrs. Alexander M. Hadden; Honorary Vice-Presidents, the Hon. Mrs. Frederick E. Guest and Madame Louis Jacques Balsan; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Charles S. Davis and Mrs. Dorsey Cullen; Secretary, Karl B. Dearborn; Treasurer, Mr. John Shepard, Jr.; Assistant Treasurer, Mr. Bert C. Teed.

Directors are Mrs. Earle Perry Charlton, Mr. Thorold F. Field, Miss Joanna Fortune, Mrs. William T. Grant, Mrs. Samuel Heilner, Miss Madeleine A. Henry, Mr. Daniel J. McCarthy, Miss Mary Munn, Mrs. George H. Nicolai, Mrs. William Procter, Mrs. John Cary Spring, Mr. Harold W. Sweatt, Mrs. Harold W. Sweatt.

Bywater Lodge, picturesque landmark of the early days in Palm Beach, now being used as a meeting place for Palm Beach Junior College students.

Marking the formal opening of the winter social season in the resort colony, the world famous Patio is holding a special gala dinner dance tomorrow night under the auspices of Aid America, Inc., outstanding Palm Beach war relief organization of which Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., prominent winter resident is founder. Each Wednesday evening during the season will be dedicated to this organization.

Special entertainment features are being offered for this gala evening under the direction of Val Ernie, Palm Beach's favorite maestro and director of entertainment. Percentage of the gross receipts will be presented to Mrs. Topping for her Aid America, Inc. The Patio management promises plenty of diverting entertainment, for the capacity gathering of fashionable resorters who have already indicated they will be on hand, as well as to aid as much as possible, this worthy cause.

The Sunday evening steak dinner parties at the Patio continue to attract many of the resort's smart set, with the sliding glass roof and the new heat control system, transforming this fashionable resort establishment into one of the coziest spots in the pleasure paths of Palm Beach, when chill breezes prevail.

When fair weather smiles, the Patio rolls back its sliding glass roof and the patrons dance under the stars, adding to the charm and atmosphere which has always made the Patio a favorite with resorters.

The attractive lounge is the setting for interesting backgammon and gin-rummy groups, while the popular cock-tail bar is a chosen spot for many who drop in to chat with their friends or to wait for the remainder of their party to join them in a delectable dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., popular members of the Palm Beach winter colony, are observed at one of the frequent dinner parties at The Patio. Mrs. Topping, the former Gloria Baker, is founder and chairman of Aid America, Inc., which is rapidly acquiring national recognition for its splendid work in aiding soldiers and sailors, and impressing the importance of making aid to America a full time job for members of the resort.

Prince and Princess Zalstem-Zalessky were hosts to a group recently consisting of their house guests, Miss Guitou Knoop and Mr. William Wessel, Prince and Princess Alexis Obolensky, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray, and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Barry.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Lehman were present with Mrs. Ritchey Farrell and Mr. Tommy Goodwin, while nearby Mr. Charles Alexander was host to a party of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Farrell were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Dresselhuys, Mrs. Ritchey Farrell, and Miss Helen Fairfax Farrell.

Mrs. Potter Bourne and Mr. Charles A. Munn were at a dance-floor table with Miss Grace Amory and Mr. Milton Holden.

Mrs. Joseph Moran entertained for Mr. and Mrs. R. McLaughlin, Mrs. Archibald McNeill, Jr., and Mr. William Ross Howard, 3d.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rauh were with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Goodman, while nearby were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Beck.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Drexler, of Delray Beach, and Louisville, Ky., were dinner hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Milton A. Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. Clement Geis.

Mr. Joseph D. Bannon was observed with Mrs. Samuel Cole, Mrs. C. C. Woodworth, and Mr. Harry Kelton.

Mrs. Sam H. Harris entertained for Mrs. Walter Giblin and Mr. Pat Watson, while Mr. and Mrs. James Reeves were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Reeves.

Mrs. N. B. Spingold entertained for her houseguests, Mrs. T. N. McAneny, Mrs. Raymond Goetz, Mr. and Mrs. Charles La Mair, and Mr. and Mrs. James Connors.

Occupying a prominent place in the Palm Beach scene is the South Ocean Club, the resort's newest dining and dancing rendezvous. The setting for smart gatherings nightly, the club, located on the ocean boulevard several miles south of the center of the resort, attracts colonists from the exclusive colonies at Hobe Sound, Lake Park, Manalapan, Gulf Stream, and Delray Beach as well as from Palm Beach.

The club building with its cool, effective decor, reflects the newest and smartest in tropical architecture and at the same time is adequately equipped to provide for the comfort of its members and guests during all types of weather. On balmy nights, the dining room is thrown open to the west terrace with its dance floor and umbrella-topped tables overlooking the waters of Lake Worth, while the upper loggia, commanding a superb view of the Atlantic, is a popular place for larger dinner and supper groups. When cool weather descends on the island, the dining room, enclosed loggia, and the ever-popular Head-hunter Lounge from an intimate setting made completely comfortable by the excellent central heating system.

Gus Lazaro's Bahamian Club Orchestra plays during the dinner hour and throughout the late evening, its repertoire including the latest songs and popular melodies from other seasons. The orchestra, for the past seven years at the Bahamian Club in Nassau, has won a warm place in the esteem of dancing enthusiasts with its smooth, sophisticated playing.

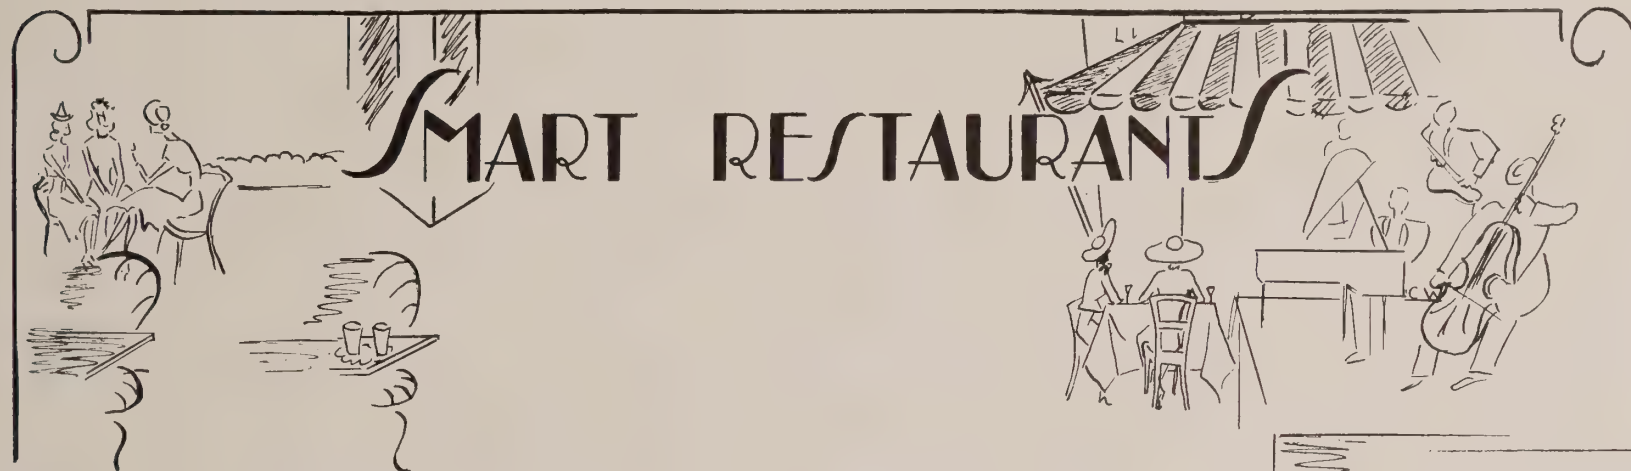

Among the many smart dinners held at the club lately was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grey, formerly of Paris, who are passing their second season at Pied-a-Terre, their winter home in Manalapan. In their party were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bronson of New York and Mr. William Wessel of the Riviera, members of their house party; Mr. and Mrs. John Moffet and Mrs. Paul Timbal, of the Everglades Club.

Mrs. William H. Buckley of Tarrytown-on-Hudson, who is at Kathwill for the season, entertained there that night, her guests including her daughters, the Misses Marian and Kathleen Buckley, and her son, Mr. Gerard A. Buckley.

Mrs. M. J. Woodward of New Orleans, who was a member of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Merrill's house party at Merrill's Landing, gave a dinner at the South Ocean Club for her hosts and for Wing Commander James D. Little of the Royal Air Force, who was here from Los Angeles for a stay at the Merrill home. Others in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Lingan A. Warren of Burlingame, Calif., Mrs. Richard H. Ellis, Mr. Edward S. Magowan, and Mr. Harry Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. Mario de Tullio, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Charles Nott, Mr. Karl Grogstad, Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Bond, Mr. Frederick M. Small, Mr. M. A. Cushman, Mr. Howard Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Fontaine LeMaistre, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peet, and Mrs. T. C. Taylor are among the many others who have entertained at the South Ocean Club recently.

MEMBERS OF THE INTERNATIONAL SET, who again this season find their travels curtailed, spend nostalgic moments at the Chambord, leading French restaurant in the resort, where the very atmosphere is reminiscent of bygone care-free days. The sunny sidewalk cafe, patterned after many a street cafe in Paris, the sophisticated service and the management itself, all had their counterpart in Paris not so long ago. And the leaders of the social set, who loved it all in its original setting, appreciate the authentically continental atmosphere at the Chambord.

As many smart resorters already have discovered to their delight, Jean is again this season the presiding genius in the kitchens of the Chambord. Many gourmets on the island give testimony of his knowledge of food, and the way he has of knowing how and when to add a touch of this or that to bring out the full true flavor of every dish he prepares. The delectable dishes he concocts have gained the Chambord a reputation both in the resort and environs.

During the course of an evening at the Chambord recently, many leading socialites were noted in dinner groups of varying size. Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Dodge, who are staying in the resort as the guests of his mother, Mrs. Hugh Dillman, dined with her at the Chambord, while Mr. Gurnee Munn, who was recently joined by his daughter, Miss Fernanda Munn, was dinner host at a nearby table.

Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., who is president of the Aid America, Inc., group, was noted at a dinner table for two, with Mr. Jeffrey Roche. The Aid America, Inc., group receive a portion of the proceeds from the dinner hour at the Chambord every Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Scarborough, who again this season are members of the cottage colony, have been seen at this charming dining place frequently as were Mrs. O. E. Thurber, Mr. Edmund Sheedy, Mrs. Morgan W. Daboll, Mr. and Mrs. Roger W. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Lumen O. Peck.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Lehmann, Mr. John Pierrepont, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Paley, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fatio, and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Sibley Dow.

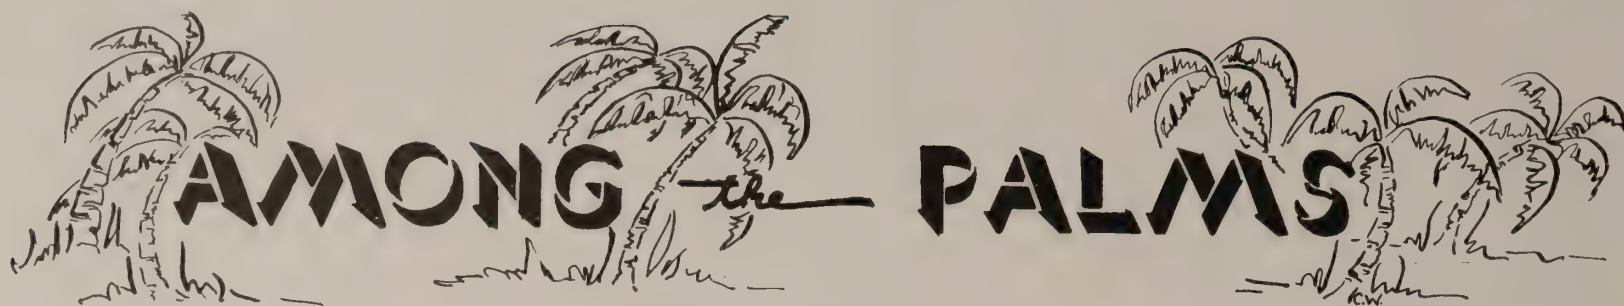

Partially due to the convenience of its location, which is just a step off Worth Avenue, the Mayerling continues to be the setting for informal luncheon groups who find the place a restful relaxation in a busy day.

Of interest to many visitors at Mayerling is the pair of photographs which hang on either side of the entrance to the patio. The pictures, which were the gift of the Archduke Franz Josef, are of two of Austria's most beloved rulers—the Emperor Franz Josef and his wife, the Empress Elizabeth. The picture was taken on their wedding day, in 1907, nine years before his death. The Archduke, who is a frequent visitor at Mayerling when in the resort, made the presentation before going north last spring.

The authentic Viennese cuisine which is featured at the Mayerling attracts not only the Europeans in the resort but practically everyone who has traveled extensively on the continent.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Paley, who are staying at Whitehall, have been noted frequently at Mayerling, sometimes entertaining a friend or two at an informal luncheon, or as members of larger dinner parties. Mrs. Edgar A. Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. T. Preston Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fatio, and Mr. and Mrs. Archibald C. Rayner have been other hosts at Mayerling recently.

AMONG the PALMS

The resort colony are finding lovely Whitehall the ideal background for that pleasant interlude between their various war activities.

As suggested by its name, Whitehall is the palace of white. Approaching the broad marble steps leading to the colonnade, the white sculpture is enhanced by the gracefully swaying Washington palms, coconut palms and carefully trimmed Australian pines in front.

Passing through the great bronze grill doors, one beholds the magnificence of bygone days; the marble hall with its seven varieties of rare Italian marble; the grand staircase of dazzling carrara, with its handsome bronze balustrades; the priceless canvas paintings upon the domed ceiling. Each room is typical of a period in the progress of art. The library is reminiscent of the Italian Renaissance period, with rich Spanish satin damask in two shades of red; heavily embroidered silk portieres; a superb mantelpiece of rare Italian red marble. The lower walls of the library comprise the most remarkable collection of matched walnut panels in the world—eighteen perfectly matched panels with a lion's head about two feet long running into the burl of the wood.

The Music Room, in the Louis XV period of decoration is rich with gold satin damask walls and drapes and is graced by the largest pipe organ that has ever been ordered for a private home, in this country. Life sized figures holding musical instruments are all around the cornices.

The room in which Henry M. Flagler played billiards, has been transformed into the "Gin Rummy Bar and Lounge." The flat beamed oak ceiling and the Swiss styled decoration in gold and shades of green and red have been combined with the tradition of yesteryear and the gleaming modernity of the streamlined age.

The graciousness and old world splendor for which this beauty spot of the world has been famed, has been carefully preserved by Marcel A. Gotschi.

Arrayed in patriotic colors, complimented by its white sands and tropical foliage, the Sun and Surf Club is once more awakening to the tramp of social register feet.

The Club is planning a series of entertaining parties and gala evenings which will mark it as one of the popular evening rendezvous for the winter colonists. In addition to sopping up the health-giving rays of the sun, members will dine and dance under the stars.

Charcoal broiled steaks, cooked before the guests by chefs in gleaming white, will be featured each evening. To avoid the confusion of ordering "well-done" and receiving "medium-well," each cut will be numbered and ordered accordingly. The fare will be simple and tasty, comprising of steak, baked potato and huge bowls of mixed salad that will be passed and repassed with regularity.

The entertainment will vary each evening to include horse-racing, and various games of chance, the proceeds of which will go in part, to numerous wartime charities.

In cooperation with the country's program designed toward keeping America fit, daily calisthenics classes will be held on the beach, under the direction of capable instructors.

The Palm Beach Biltmore opens officially for the 1942 season on Tuesday, January 20th, again under the management of Mr. L. A. Tworoger and John L. Stanley, who made so many friends among the Palm Beach residents last year.

An important change in the personnel of the Biltmore this year is the introduction of a very fine orchestra under the direction of Robert Fletcher McGrew. "Bob" will be remembered by many of the Palm Beach people who have visited Bermuda, where, for two years he conducted the orchestra at the Princess Hotel. He brings to Palm Beach a talented group of musicians who have played together as a unit over radio from many stations, arriving here in Palm Beach from the West Coast. This orchestra has played in the important spots from Chicago to the Pacific. This will be their first engagement in Florida and they bring here a rounded background of both concert and dance music which have won for them special recognition in their radio presentations.

Continuing at the Biltmore this year will be featured those delightful buffet suppers which were the object of such favorable comment last year. These buffets, following the best traditions of a Colonial British service, were often masterpieces of buffet art, and were no small reason for the popularity of the hotel dining-room at the Biltmore every Sunday throughout the season.

The more extensive use of the garden patio for afternoon teas is provided in the program of this season—this superb setting enhanced by the musical background and facilities for entertainment which only the spacious patio could provide.

In the Art Gallery at the Biltmore, which will open this week, are to be found the works of several of the most important contemporary American artists. Included in the first showing will be paintings by the incomparable American artists, Carl Blenner and Howard Chandler Christy and several other equally famous artists.

The Palm Beach Hotel has started its social program for the season with dinner and dance music by Walter Feldkamp's Orchestra. Bridge Tournaments or foursomes are nightly events and during the day-time hours the majority of the guests enjoy sunning on the spacious verandas or the solarium. Swimming at one of the various beach clubs to which all guests are eligible for membership, is a daily recreation. Cuisine at the Palm Beach Hotel is of the best and many dinners are preceded by aperitif parties in the cocktail lounge.

Recent arrivals at the Palm Beach include William Finley of Brooklyn who was welcomed by a host of his old friends. He is a familiar figure daily at the Breakers Cabana Club. Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Caldwell of Chicago are at the hotel for a visit. From the same city are Miss Gladys Harrington, Miss Clara T. Berno and Lawrence Miller. Miss Marie Gleason of Kew Gardens arrived last week; and Mr. F. H. Gottscho from Jamaica, N. Y. Also there are Mr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Walker, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Farnham Greene, Southport, Conn., Miss Anne G. Charlier, East Orange, N. J., and Miss Edith Hanson, New York.

DOWN THRU THE AGES—

Dating from Cleopatra's time, no regal lady ruled her throne without an array of greyhounds.

Cleo—that bewitching queen, had 1,127 of the fastest the world has known, in her castle on the Nile.

Great was the speed of Cleopatra's greyhounds, but it is doubtful if they could compare with Red Gaze, Texas Tech, Magnificent Mike, and others now racing at the Palm Beach Kennel Club.

The Sun never sets on

It gives you a deep sense of satisfaction when you order a drink "made with Gilbey's Gin" to realize that at the very same minute other men who know fine liquors are sitting at far-away windows with that same familiar Gilbey's bottle beside them. For nearly a century now, the sun has never set on Gilbey's Gin . . . because millions of men have found, as you will, too, that Gilbey's makes a great drink greater!

Facts about Fabrics

ARE HAND-LOOMED FABRICS SUPERIOR TO MACHINE-LOOMED?

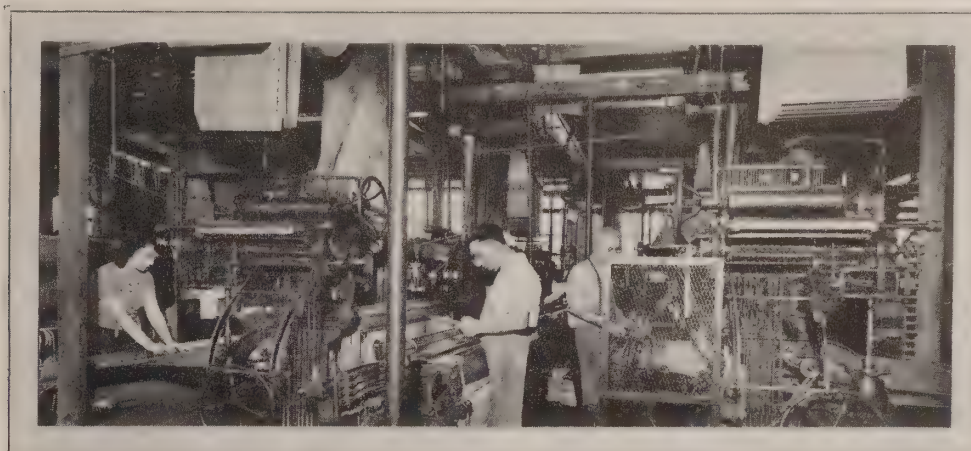

"rare invention for the weaving of four or five webs at one time without human help." The historian further records that "the invention was suppressed because it would prejudice the people, and the artist was made away with secretly."

Even today the prejudice persists that in fabric-weaving the "hand-made" product is best. But the real truth is that the hand-craftsman, even beyond his limitations of slow and costly production, cannot compete with the motorized loom in the very instances in which he is supposed to excel; namely, quality, uniformity of weave, purity of color, variety and elaborateness of design.

No human hand for example, possesses the actual strength to draw the weft threads of a complicated pattern through the warp with the evenness and regularity which is the measure of the fabric's wearing qualities. Whereas the machine, with its perfect uniformity of weave, avoids disastrous breaking down at unexpected points of a fabric otherwise in good condition.

Further, the continuous and expensive research and experiment which produces perfect dyes and superb

EARLY in the 17th century there was set up in the City of Danzig a raw materials is far beyond the resources of the average hand-craftsman. And the designer who achieves international distinction gravitates naturally to the manufacturer who offers most worthy interpretation of his designs and most lucrative rewards for his genius.

Only in his high artistic standards and maintenance of the great traditions of the master-weavers of the past can the hand-craftsman claim superiority to the average motorized loom. But at the mills of Scalamandre, these standards and traditions are jealously guarded by weavers whose fathers and forefathers have for generations been masters of their art in America and the Old World; and in addition to their pride and probity, equally high as that of any hand-weaver, these craftsmen are given the tremendous advantages of modern science and invention, of endless research and experiment, to aid them in producing the super-fabrics—the heirlooms of tomorrow—that are Scalamandre Silks.

For the convenience of those who wish to obtain the characteristic effect produced by the hand-loom, Scalamandre maintains not only those producing plain fabrics, but also rarely found jacquard hand-looms, and even looms for the making of broche fabrics. The latter we believe to be the only broche hand-looms in America.

Key West

Key West demonstrates its self-sufficiency and versatility more each year. No stock company comes here, but there is no lack of amateur shows of very fine calibre. Miss Lillian Connally, of New York, has presented a cabaret in Key West for a number of years, and has been busy rehearsing her cast of local talent these past few weeks. Several performances of the cabaret will be put on over this week-end for the benefit of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The dancing numbers are especially beautiful this year, for dancing is Key West's forte.

The Key West Players are also busy with rehearsals for their show which will be put on some time in February.

The navy wives are busy these days for charity's sweet sake. They are to put on a Fashion Show at the Casa Marina the evening of February thirteenth, for the officers and their families. The show will benefit the Navy Relief Fund. The Key West Women's Club will also sponsor a Fashion Show at the Casa Marina some time in February.

A one-man exhibition of water colors by Martha Watson has been opened at the Art Center, which will remain there until the 29th. All landscapes, the paintings are of Key West, Provincetown, Williamsburg and Savannah, and they are being shown for the first time in Key West.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Willing entertained at a farewell party at the Casa Marina prior to their departure for New York. Their guests included Mrs. Robert T. Menner, Miss Ileen Williams, Miss Minnie Porter Harris, Mrs. Hunt Harris, Major and Mrs. Robert Snidow, Mr. and Mrs. Norberg Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reuter, Mrs. D. A. Printz and Commander and Mrs. Tucker Gibbs, (retired).

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walsh, of Elgin, Ill., entertained at dinner honoring her sister, Mrs. Ryburn G. Clay, of Atlanta. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Glen O. Smith, of Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Farrington, of Newton Center; Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, of Chicago, and Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Netz, of Hackensack, N. J.

Arrivals at the Casa Marina include Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. T. Henry Lefebre and Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Mead, of New York; L. S. Audette, of Essex Fells, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Reinecke, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bigler, John Nuveen, Jr., and C. T. McCreedy, of Chicago; Mrs. Robert W. Simms, Miss Marjorie McAlister and Mrs. Starling Peterson, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. R. D. Two Centuries to Make...

Two Minutes to Mix!

In 1661, Jamaica's Parliament enacted the first of a series of quality-control laws which have helped to give the world its finest rums. Today they remain unique in the diminishing selection of fine imported liquors—result of Jamaica's climate, soil and water—and a centuries-old, painstaking development of their slow, natural, virtually "hand made" manufacture.

Select a light or dark Jamaica rum—any of the dozen or more brands. They blend naturally with simple, "standard" mixers—soda, ginger ale, vermouth, and especially, tropic fruit juices for which they have a geographical affinity. So, when you're after a new flavour, when quality is paramount, ask for

Jamaica Rums

Try these favourite recipes that the Jamaicans themselves endorse:

JAMAICA PUNCH—1/3 jigger lemon or lime juice, 2/3 jigger sugar or syrup, 1 jigger Jamaica Rum, 1 1/3 jiggers water, lots of cracked ice. Shake until creamy collar rises—serve immediately.

JAMAICA SWIZZLE—To one jigger Jamaica Rum add 6 dashes Angostura Bitters, juice of one lime or lemon, 1 teaspoonful granulated sugar and plenty of shaved ice. Churn with swizzle stick till container begins to frost. Strain into cocktail glass and serve.

CORAL GABLES

The brilliantly-illuminated Giralda Tower symbolizes the gay life that is centered about the Miami Biltmore in Coral Gables, where, an active sports and social season is hitting its stride as the weeks advance.

The bridge-luncheons are popular gatherings twice weekly in the gorgeously-appointed Giralda Room, and one of the largest held recently was that given by Mrs. William S. Parry who entertained the Mmes. Earl Adams, Nan Bennett, Ernest Philpitt, Fay Feltyberger, Helena Elliott, Mary Farnham, Rosa Elliott, E. L. Griffith, Jennie M. Brown, Charles Miller, Emil Melanson, Ida Knight, Rhees Marshall, John Hilton and James Macfarlane.

Mrs. J. J. Strahler entertained recently for the Mmes. George Odom, Elmer Schank and Alice Brown. With Mrs. Charles Young were the Baroness DeGreve, Mrs. John N. Rowe and Mrs. Kent Cooper. An entire Buffalo, N. Y., party was staged by Mrs. Alfred T. Collins of the upstate New York city who entertained the Mmes. Dorothea Brady, Charles G. Moore, Stanley De Long and Edith Cronk. Mrs. A. R. Ebi had the Mmes. E. B. Turkenkoph, P. P. Fields and J. D. Adkisson.

Mr. Milton M. Chapman each Saturday night entertains at dinner for a group of Army and Navy men and their wives. This policy has met with widespread approval and will be continued throughout the season.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Homan of New York and Deal, N. J., have arrived for the season as have Mr. and Mrs. Julius Teuteur of Cleveland, where Mr. Teuteur is president of the Cleveland division of General Electric.

An active tennis season is planned at the Miami Biltmore Country Club under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Ryan, winner of 19 Wimbledon championships. Sam H. McCormick, president of the club, has appointed a tennis committee that includes Mr. and Mrs. C. Berwind Harjes, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Lucchesi, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Slack, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McE. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson P. Davies and Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Moon.

The former Gloria Baker, whose activities as founder and chairman of Aid America, Inc., have raised a considerable sum of money to furnish cigarettes and other articles for the soldiers, sailors and marines at the fighting front. Mrs. Topping is a popular member of the social colony in Palm Beach.

AMONG the PALMS

WITH PALM BEACH having adjusted itself to America's war-time status, the hotel colony has resumed a normal social life. Attractive parties are again the order of the day in the resort, with most of the social functions designed to furnish the dual purpose of raising funds for America's fighting forces and to do their bit toward sustaining the morale of our own community.

Setting an excellent example to the rest of the resort are the guests of the island's leading hostelries. The members of the hotel colony in Palm Beach are joining wholeheartedly in the move to restore the usual cheerful constructive atmosphere that has made this island distinctive in resort life for a half century.

Each of the outstanding social functions planned for them at the various fine resort hotels here has met with the enthusiastic participation of the guests and the example has proved contagious.

Parties given for patriotic movements are being supported by the entire resort colony. Among the most interesting of the parties being arranged for Palm Beach's visitors are the Gin Rummy Tournaments sponsored by Whitehall.

The money raised through this tourney, which has attracted the interest of the entire social colony in Palm Beach, is being used to purchase athletic equipment for the men at Morrison Field Air Base.

Palm Beach has recaptured, to a great extent, the leisurely gracious life that made the early days in this resort the envy of the social world. As in the days when the Royal Poinciana was the hub of the social activities in Palm Beach, Whitehall and other of the island's fashionable hostelries, are furnishing a background to meet the mood of the day.

The afternoon tea has superseded the gay cocktail party and the directors of the various resort hotels have installed such interesting diversions as Gin Rummy, Backgammon and other games that form a pleasant background for a chat with friends in a leisurely setting.

Many of the hotel residents in Palm Beach are taking an active part in the war work being carried on here, and joining hands with the resident colony in vital defense campaigns. Classes in first-aid, the local motor-corps training branch and canteen service find representatives of life under the palms doing their bit for America, home defense and sustaining community morale.

Mrs. Helen R. Malloy, social director of Whitehall, who inaugurated the tournament, and arranged for its co-ordination with raising funds for a healthful athletic background at Morrison Field, is doing a splendid job with the co-operation of the guests of the hotel and members of the cottage colony to put this weekly patriotic party over the top.

Mr. Walter R. Richard, nationally known authority on Bridge and one of the standardizers of Gin Rummy, is in charge of the tournament, which begins between eight and eight-thirty on Wednesday evenings.

The tournament is held in the Gin Rummy Room, which was transformed from the former brokerage offices at Whitehall. Each week finds an increasing number of participants in the tourney and an appreciable sum being raised for the soldiers.

With the social season at Whitehall in full swing, winter colonists once again gather together to dance and listen to the music of Nick D'Amico and his orchestra. Georgie Hines plays the electric steel guitar and sings in numerous languages. Although there is no brass in the group, the four-man rhythm section has so much life to it that everyone enjoys dancing.

Jack Beekman, although a newcomer to Palm Beach, is well-known to frequenters of Ciro's, the Coc Rouge and other kindred spots. His smooth rendition of "Where or When," the number which he was the first to introduce to the public, long before it reached that distinction of being a "never-to-be-forgotten" musical moment and his sparkling interpretation of "Any Bonds Today" brought forth a round of applause that echoed across Lake Worth.

The Arthur Murray instructors introduced for the first time a Rhumba Matinee which was preceded by a short history of the original of the present popular rhumba. Miss Michael McSteen and Mr. Mickey Alvarez demonstrated the "Don'ts," followed by Mr. Alvarez and Miss Raymond demonstrating the correct rhumba technique.

The social program at the Palm Beach Hotel is under way with Miss Grace Donehue in charge of activities. Walter Feldkamp's orchestra is playing for dinner and dancing. Recently the management gave a cocktail party in the Jungle Grill which was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Adolph LeMoult, Mr. and Mrs. George Scully, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Rhead, Mr. and Mrs. John Huston, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Leslie, Mrs. Roy L. Goode, Mrs. Eugene Pickrell, Miss Ethel Johnson, Miss Mary W. Ray and the Messrs. D. J. Palmer, John McNamara and Michael Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Farrell of Wilmington, Del., who are at the hotel for their annual visit were welcomed by a host of friends on their arrival and were the guests of honor at an impromptu cocktail party held at the Palm Beach Hotel. Also present were Mr. Frederick Duggan, owner of the Monmouth Hotel at Spring Lake, N. J., and Mrs. Duggan who have their winter residence near Gulf Stream; Mr. and Mrs. Bert C. Riley, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Volz, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Le Moult, Mrs. E. R. Pickrell, Miss Katherine Flannery and Mr. M. H. Lynch.

The Palm Beach Biltmore opened officially on Wednesday, January 21, with a brilliant social program and an emphasis on wartime charities. This program will serve the double purpose of raising funds for the benefit of the Red Cross and the U. S. O. and at the same time follow the policy in effect throughout the colony, of providing relaxation and recreation for the members of the resort.

Bob McGrew and his orchestra made their first appearance in Palm Beach on Wednesday evening, January 21, and his music continues to be a highlight of the social program at the Biltmore. He is a well-known figure to frequenters of the Westchester Country Club, the Princess in Bermuda and the Olympic in Seattle. According to the list of reservations, for their social functions at the Palm Beach Biltmore, many old friends are turning out to greet their favorite band maestro.

Mr. John L. Stanley, managing director of the Biltmore, reports a substantial increase in reservations as compared to last year.

The social program includes dancing in the evening to the strains of Bob McGrew's music, informal after dinner concerts each evening in the exotic Andalusian Room, bridge tournaments and English Buffet Suppers on Sunday evenings.

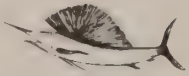

Plans for gala evenings are being formulated and the Palm Beach Biltmore promises to rival past years with its entertaining program.

An inviting entrance to palatial Whitehall, former palace of Henry M. Flagler and present hostelry for many of the smart set who make Palm Beach their winter home, is found in this beautifully fashioned wrought iron gate with its background of feathery palms and tropical shrubbery.

Annual Derby Attracts Noted Anglers

BLUSTERY WEATHER and rough seas caused the Eighth Annual Silver Sailfish Derby to get off to a slow start, but anglers from all parts of the country are more than making up for it at the present time, with the Derby in full swing and scheduled to end February 3.

Held annually by the West Palm Beach Fishing Club, with the cooperation of resort angling clubs and charter and private boats, noted anglers comb the Gulf Stream off Palm Beach for the longest and heaviest sailfish, with the hope of winning awards in the event.

Most coveted of all American sports fishing awards, and top trophy for the Sailfish Derby is the Silver Sailfish Trophy presented by Mrs. Henry R. Rea of Palm Beach and Sewickley, Pa., perpetual award for the Derby, which is presented for the longest sailfish caught during the event.

Keen rivalry is also expected for the Col. E. R. Bradley trophy, awarded for the heaviest "sail," taken during the event. Other awards include the Gene T. Dyer Trophy for the longest sailfish taken on light tackle; the Dorst Trophy for the longest and heaviest sailfish by points, and the T. R. Mullen Award for the second longest sailfish.

Daily awards are made by the West Palm Beach Fishing Club for the longest sailfish caught each day and marine radio telephones are to be awarded to the private and charter boats on which the longest sailfish are caught during the event.

Competing in the Sailfish Derby are many of the private craft of residents and visitors to Palm Beach, including Phillip Reid, Jappie II, Phillip Reid; J. E. McAuliffe, Emjay, John Rupp; Joseph S. Caldwell, Lamica, Charles Morgan; W. B.

In quest of the elusive sailfish, trim craft of the resort's sport fishing fleet head through the inlet to the famed waters of the Gulf Stream off Palm Beach, to take part in the Eighth Annual Silver Sailfish Derby, which ends February 3.

Smythe, QT, Bill Engman; Edward Hebdon, Bugz, Herbert Stetson; Bache Whitlock, Cyambia, Wes Bryant.

Much praise has been given to the high type of fishing craft available and the top-notch skippers handling them. Furnishing a nucleus for the successful game fish excursions is the trim Palm Beach fishing fleet berthed at the Everglades Avenue dock on the lake in front of the Beaux Arts building.

Offering the most modern fishing craft available and manned by skippers of long experience in the Most coveted of all sports fishing awards is the Silver Sailfish Trophy presented by Mrs. Henry R. Rea of Sewickley, Pa., and Palm Beach, a perpetual award for the Derby, for the longest sailfish caught. Names of each year's winners are inscribed on the perpetual trophy, and the winners receive a delightful replica of this famous prize.

Awarded to the angler landing the heaviest sailfish each year in the Annual Silver Sailfish Derby is the Col. E. R. Bradley trophy, one of which has been given each year since this outstanding anglers' event started eight years ago.

art of game fishing all along the Atlantic coast, the fleet procured a major portion of the sport fish landed by members of both groups.

These craft are completely equipped with ship-to-shore radio, out-riggers, all kinds of fishing tackle and are sufficiently large and seaworthy to be used both locally and for lengthy cruises anywhere along the Florida coast, the Bahamas or in the Gulf.

Sport fishing craft now at the Everglades Avenue dock include Trade Winds, captained by Frank Doan of Toms River, N. J.; the Blackjack, with Capt. Rudy Steinhäuser as skipper; Miraamy with Capt. Tom Jones; Narcissus, Capt. Harry Hunt; Miss Sally, Capt. Walt Githens.

A welcome addition to the private craft in Palm Beach, which berthed at the Everglades Avenue dock is the M. J. II, owned by Mr. J. E. McAuliffe, well known member of the winter colony, and manned by Capt. John Rupp, veteran skipper.

The M. J. II is the newest type of Chris Craft sedan cruiser, 35 feet long, equipped with ship-to-shore-radio, and suitable for long trips or short jaunts. Mr. McAuliffe has already been host to a number of friends on successful fishing trips, recently fishing with a group consisting of Mr. Paul Cushman, Mr. John Cushman, Mr. Allan K. Wylie.

The Donna, owned by Mr. B. F. Stout, is also using the local dock for its winter headquarters as well as the Hookie 3rd, owned by Mr. Charles K. Alexander. Other private craft are expected soon to use the Everglades Avenue dock and several more charter craft will soon arrive.

Feminine anglers continue to show up the men when it comes to landing the sailfish.

Mrs. Wilma Douglas, daughter of Col. Robert H. Morse, who was a member of the party, and Mrs. Robert E. McCall joined the ranks of successful feminine anglers when each brought in hefty specimens measuring 7 feet 5 inches and tipping the scales at around 50 pounds. Both fish are to be mounted by Fred Parke. They were out with Capt. Walt Githens aboard the Miss Sally from the Everglades Avenue docks.

Mr. James Lovatelli, fishing from his own cruiser, Suits Me, with Capt. James Hamilton, caught and released a sailfish about four feet long.

Miss Ellen Lehman, who is spending the season at Delray Beach, was the second feminine angler to land a large sailfish in as many days, boating a large specimen measuring 7 feet 5 inches and weighing 66 pounds. It took her 35 minutes to land the gamey fish, but she handled her rod like a veteran and finally brought it to gaff.

Others in the group from Delray included Henry Whitney, Howard Whitney and John Brinkley. They were out with Capt. Rudy Steinhäuser aboard the Blackjack from the Everglades Avenue Dock.

Fishing from Capt. Johnny Weihe's Secret in the Gulf Stream, Miss Joy Plummer, New York City, and Mr. Herbert Merrick, Pittsburgh, Pa., each landed a sailfish. The former's catch was 7 feet 3 inches long, the latter's two inches shorter.

Others fishing from the Secret were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Disaell, New York City, and Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ridder, of St. Paul. They formed a group from Whitehall.

Eleven large kingfish, nine bonitos, and three dolphins, with the two sails, comprised the total catch.

Mr. Stephen Millard of Manisquam, N. J., brought in a sailfish measuring 6 feet 9 inches in length. Mrs. Millard also caught several dolphin and kingfish. They were out with Capt. Herbert Scheckler aboard the Tradewinds, from the Everglades Avenue Dock.

The celebrated Dorst Trophy given annually by Mr. A. A. Dorst of Cincinnati, Ohio, is awarded for the longest and heaviest fish caught, figured on the point system.

STROLLING down Worth Avenue and North County Road, the Rue de la Paix of America, will give an idea of what the world's best dressed women are selecting for casual resort wear. For shopping and then lunching or cocktailing at one of the smart restaurants or cocktail bars, slacks suits are everywhere. White is the predominant color, all-white and white merged with bright or dark color; big, splashy prints are second in importance.

Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., who likes slacks for casual wear and to whom they are so becoming, wore a very chic outfit one day to luncheon at Taboo. The slacks and sports shirt were white and the long-sleeved, tailored jacket was white with a medium blue pin stripe. Her white wedgies echoed the blue accent in tailored vamp bows.

Mrs. Lawrence Wood (Chip) Robert, Jr., wore one of the most striking slacks suits seen this winter to cocktails in Finchley's cocktail lounge. White tailored slacks and a white shirtwaist blouse printed with bright tropical flowers. Voluminous sleeves with fitted cuffs featured the blouse. Her white play shoes were also distinctive; intricate bands of elasticized fabric.

Mrs. Walter Reisinger was observed shopping on Worth Avenue in a smart red, white and black outfit. Her slacks were bright red, sports blouse white, and black suede fashioned her sports shoes and chic handbag.

Apple green slacks were chosen by Mrs. Daniel Dulany Hunter for cocktails at the Alibi. The outfit with long torso jacket-like top was of sharkskin and bright red shoes and a multi-colored bag completed the smartly brilliant outfit.

Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld is very fond of slacks and usually wears them for shopping, lunching and cocktails. At a recent Alibi luncheon, she wore a bright red slacks suit with beige leather belt, and numerous gold bracelets on both arms.

Mrs. J. Kearsley Mitchell, of Hobe Sound, daughter of Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, is another socialite adopting slacks suits and patio pajamas for casual wear. Her wardrobe includes both pastel solid colors and brilliant prints, with a predominance of poudre blue.

The opening race at Hialeah brought out many chic and unusual costumes. Outstanding in this crowd of smartly dressed women was Mrs. George Eustis Paine, Jr. (Joan Leidy), who was garbed in red, white and blue. Her very high-heeled sandals and matching handbag of strips of red, white and blue leather, dotted with tiny gold stars, were echoed in her red skirt, white blouse and navy blue jacket.

Mrs. George Dobyne looked very smart lunching at the Bath and Tennis Club, in a navy and white cricket flannel outfit. Reversing the usual choice, her skirt was navy blue, pleated in the back and front, and topped with a white tailored jacket with wide pipings of the blue. Brass buttons and a gold braid insignia on the pocket, completed the attractive costume.

Mrs. Horace H. Work, Jr's., dancing gown was a conversation piece at the Everglades Club one recent evening. It is an exquisite creation of pale blue marquisette, made with fitted basque bodice with low decolletage back and front, short sleeves and full, flaring skirt. The talking point is the wide hem of the skirt which is a mass of hand-painted water lilies in all of the pastel tints and green frogs; the entire decoration outlined in vari-colored sequins.

In every gathering of smartly dressed women in Palm Beach this winter, you'll see a gay array of printed frocks; both daytime and evening. Mrs. Walter Giblin (Constance Talmadge), wore an attractive red and white all-over print jacket-dress, at a recent Taboo cocktail party.

Mrs. Edward V. Quinn was a striking figure shopping on Worth Avenue, in a pale beige slacks outfit with brown accessories. Contrasted with this casual garb were her huge diamond and ruby flower-shaped earrings.

Tailored suits are having an unprecedented vogue in the resort this season; particularly those of gabardine, sharkskin and similar fabrics. Many women are adopting suits as the backbone of their casual wardrobe; simple, tailored suits highlighted with exotic accessories. Typical of this vogue was the attractive light beige suit and blouse of the same color worn by Princess Alexis Ob-olensky, for shopping; accented with a multi-colored handbag and sandals.

Mrs. John Moffat looked very lovely dining at the Chambord one recent evening, in a hyacinth blue evening dress topped with a fitted jacket of the same material. Gold braid and sequins in a massive looking design adorned the entire front of the dinner jacket.

Dancing at the Patio with Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., Miss Marie Antoinette Bassett was charmingly gowned in a picturesque-styled creation in tri-color scheme; made with a low V-necklined basque and gracefully full skirt.

Miss Joy D. Plummer also noted at the Patio, wore an attractive white dress with jacket of contrasting color; the long, fitted bodice and flaring skirt, flaunting the popular South American influence.

The Tombola luncheons each Wednesday at the Everglades Club are always noted for the array of smartly-dressed women. Noted at a recent Tombola were: Mrs. Horace E. Dodge, in a slate blue suit with dusty pink tailored blouse and matching turban; Mrs. Hugh Dillman wearing a pastel pink spectator sports frock and wide-brimmed hat of natural-color straw; Mrs. Frank C. Henderson, in a white crepe jacket-dress, bordered with blue and white print, her hat, a matching blue; Mrs. Arthur Wolley-Hart, very chic in gray fitted slacks with white wool reefer jacket, and white pill-box worn back on her head.

Mrs. Le Ray Berdeau, observed at a tea at the Four Arts, was wearing a dusty blue hand-knit suit, topped with a white teddy bear fingertip jacket with gold kid collar and facing. Her turban was a checkerboard affair in red, medium blue and black, and her wedgies repeated this gay color theme.

Dining at the Everglades Club recently, Mrs. Vincent Bloss-Ward was wearing a striking grey ribbed jersey shirtwaist dinner dress, with high tailored collar and long sleeves; the shirtwaist top lavishly embroidered in gold.

Mrs. Henry J. Hinde looked very lovely, dining at The Breakers one recent evening. She was wearing a coral evening gown trimmed in bugle beads of the same color; a big bowknot and long ends of the bead-decorated fabric was the dazzling trim for one side of the gown.

Also noted in The Breakers dining room was Mrs. David Mabec, in an ultra-smart multi-colored print evening gown; skirt-length fringe repeating all of the colors of the print was a distinguishing style note. Her fingertip length jacket was white fox.

Chairman of Volunteers for Victory Lauds Her Aides in War Work

A RECENT INTERVIEW, primarily designed to bring out at least a small part of the background of patriotic and humanitarian activities that have marked the career of Mrs. Henry R. Rea, chairman of Volunteers for Victory, staff member of the board of incorporators of the Walter Reed Hospital and Honorary Member of the Central Committee, the Governing Body of the American National Red Cross, disclosed a wealth of information anent her latest patriotic venture and glowing encomiums for her aides in war work in Palm Beach.

Mrs. Rea, who is noted as the Red Cross Field Director at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington during the last war, spoke at length on matters pertaining to the accomplishments of her associates in Volunteers for Victory and courteously evaded leading questions regarding the part she has played in American Red Cross work for twenty-four years.

Her magnificent gifts of planes, ambulances and other vital equipment to the armed forces of America and Great Britain, during the past decades, are history, but details concerning these gifts were conspicuous by their absence, in the interview, as were the inside stories of her Red Cross activities during the last World War.

Of the inception of Volunteers for Victory, Mrs. Rea said: "In last November of this season, it became apparent that we were nearing the point in this and other communities in America, where all of our thoughts and energies should be directed toward helping our own men in all branches of the service."

Mrs. Rea spoke of the meeting called at her home on South Ocean Boulevard early in the season, which was attended by about forty members of the social colony in Palm Beach.

"The first idea brought forward at this time," said Mrs. Rea, "was the suggestion that we form a Red Cross Chapter in Palm Beach, independent of any other local chapter, with our own officers and personnel."

Referring to this proposal she said "From my own experiences as a director of the American Red Cross, I knew that this would be impracticable, due to Palm Beach being a resort colony, with the carrying on of our work, if not halted, at least greatly curtailed during the summer months."

As a still active member of the board of incorporators of the Walter Reed Hospital and the American Red Cross, Mrs. Rea found other drawbacks to this proposal.

She stressed to the assemblage the necessity for participation in all of the numerous Red Cross activities which such a set-up would entail as a recognized chapter of the Red Cross.

The plan of being a branch of the West Palm Beach chapter was also brought forward during the meeting, but many wished to be free to enter into other war activities.

It was finally decided to form an organization to act as a clearing house for many and diverse branches of war work, and the name of Volunteers for Victory was chosen.

Since the original meeting at the home of Mrs. Rea, this nucleus for Volunteers for Victory has branched out into an amazing field of war efforts, with the majority of the social colony in Palm Beach joining wholeheartedly in doing their bit.

Among the many different fields of war endeavor entered into by the Volunteers for Victory, are classes in Nurses' Aid, Nutrition and Canteen work, Red Cross First Aid and Mechanics. They are also carrying on a Victory Drive for books, transportation in conjunction with Civilian Defense, recreation for men in uniform at the camps in this area, and knitting for the men at the front. Their over-the-top drive for the Red Cross Roll Call and War Fund is history.

Of her staff of aides, Mrs. Rea said, "I cannot speak too highly of the contagious enthusiasm and earnest effort shown by my associates in the various phases of the work done under the banner of Volunteers for Victory.

"Mr. Hugh Dillman, as president of Volunteers for Victory, has been the spark that ignited many of our war endeavors and has put his every effort and splendid organizing genius into this cause, as he has into every really worth-while movement in the resort, since his advent into Palm Beach civic and social affairs."

In speaking of the work being done by Mrs. Maitland Alexander, vice-president of Volunteers for Victory, Mrs. Rea, said, "Mrs. Alexander has contributed a great deal of time and hard work toward insuring the best possible results from our various war activities. Her work has been outstanding."

Mrs. Rea was glowingly commendatory in speaking of each of the officers and department heads of her staff.

She said "You can run your finger down the list of names that comprise the roster of active workers for Volunteers for Victory and you won't find a laggard in the lot.

"Magnificent work is being done by Mr. Alexander Rutherford as Secretary and Treasurer, and Mrs. Rutherford, in association with Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller and Mrs. Alfred G. Kay, is getting fine results in the field of recreation for the soldiers; Mrs. Joseph F. Gunster and Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld, as heads of Nutrition and Canteen, are doing great work; Mr. Joseph F. Gunster and Mr. Alfred G. Kay are taking their task of furnishing transportation for a diverse field of military endeavors in their stride and are doing creditable work. Mrs. Clegg Monroe is one of our finest. Her knitting classes are being handled in a workmanlike manner and are really contributing usable articles for the men at the fighting front in appreciable quantity."

The chairman of Volunteers for Victory said that Mrs. Edward R. Shearson, as chairman of First Aid, had completely dedicated herself to her war work and has proved a positive inspiration to her fellow-workers.

"Mrs. Shearson is an inexhaustible fountain of energy and determination in war activities and is making her First Aid work a seven-day a week job. I have never seen such vigor and enterprise," was her comment on the work being done by the head of the First Aid committee of the Volunteers for Victory.

Mr. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld and his committee on the Red Cross Roll Call and War Fund came in for their share of praise from their chairman, with their feat in doubling the quota in Palm Beach for the drive evoking warm words of appreciation from Mrs. Rea.

"Of course the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dill-man, Sir Harry and Lady Oakes and other large contributors, helped put the drive over," said Mrs. Rea, "but splendid work was done by Mr. Wichfeld and other workers including Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock."

Mr. Charles Alexander, according to Mrs. Rea, is typical of the finest in the younger set in Palm Beach, and has done a world of urgent work as head of the Victory Drive for Books, to be sent to the United States Army, Navy and Marines."

"While Mrs. McKinlock has transferred her considerable energies and talents to almost full-time duty in Civilian Defense, her work for Volunteers for Victory has been a source of inspiration to the younger members," was Mrs. Rea's comment on the fine work contributed by this popular member of the social colony.

Mrs. Rea said that Mrs. Robert D. Huntington had given up all of her social activities and that her Nurses' Aid work at the Good Samaritan Hospital and her various activities in the work for the hospital itself had completely absorbed her since the beginning of the season.

Charter members of Volunteers for Victory are Mrs. Maitland Alexander, Mr. Charles Alexander, Col. and Mrs. Harold A. Braman, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman, Mrs. Margaret Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Gunster, Mrs. John F. Harris, Mrs. Robert D. Huntington, Mrs. Antoinette Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Kay, Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock, Captain and Mrs. Cyrus Miller, Mrs. Clegg Monroe, Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Mr. and Mrs. J. Leonard Replogle, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rutherford, Mrs. Edward Shearson, Mrs. E. Hope G. Slater, Major and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton and Mr. and Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld.

Officers of the organization are Mrs. Henry R. Rea, chairman; Mr. Hugh Dillman, president; Mrs. Maitland Alexander, vice-president; Mr. Alexander Rutherford, secretary and treasurer.

Red Cross, Roll Call and War Fund: Mr. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld, chairman; First Aid, Mrs. Edward R. Shearson, chairman; Knitting, Mrs. Clegg Monroe, chairman; Nurses Aid, Mrs. Robert D. Huntington, chairman; Recreation, Mrs. Alexander H. Rutherford, Mrs. Cyrus Miller and Mrs. Alfred G. Kay; Transportation, Mr. Joseph F. Gunster and Mr. Alfred G. Kay; Nutrition and Canteen, Mrs. Joseph F. Gunster and Mrs. Aksel C. P. Wichfeld.

MRS. HENRY R. REA,

Chairman of Volunteers for Victory, and famed for her work as Red Cross Director at the Walter Reed Hospital during the last World War. Mrs. Rea has been an active worker and a prominent figure in Red Cross work for twenty-four years. She is a popular member of the social colony here.

PALM BEACH'S internationally renowned Colony Club opens this season with Red White and Blue as the color theme and coordination with the resort's worthy war drives as the dominating factor in a program replete with interest. Thursday, Jan. 29, has been set for the opening dinner-dance.

Jack Mitchell, popular figure in resort activities for the past decade in Palm Beach, has, as managing director of the Colony Club, enlisted the background and facilities of this noted gathering spot under the banner of Uncle Sam. Mr. Mitchell is well known to the smart set in Palm Beach as the former director of the Sun and Surf Club, the Palm Beach Country Club and the South Ocean Club.

The first of the patriotic parties planned will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 3, with Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr.'s popular patriotic organization as the medium for raising funds to purchase vitally needed articles for America's Soldiers, Sailors, Aviators and Marines on the fighting front.

Each Tuesday night will be dedicated to Aid America with a special midnight supper being planned for this night, so as not to conflict with any of the established club nights in the resort.

Those who have entered in the Everglades Club's backgammon tournament on that night and the resorters who have planned to entertain at the Patio and other nights spots at dinner are urged to bring their guests to the Colony Club for a special midnight buffet supper to Aid America on Tuesday, February 3.

In charge of cuisine at the Colony Club, Mr. Mitchell has Albert Rollet whose culinary genius and background of international accomplishments are known to the entire resort colony. Rollet needs no introduction to the smart set in Palm Beach. As managing chef at the Patio for several seasons, his artistry in salads, sauces and preparation of fine food has made his name synonymous with good cooking.

Charles Zaberts will act as maitre d'hotel at the Colony Club. He is well known to the international set, having greeted members of cosmopolitan society at New York's leading restaurants and night spots.

Among the many changes that have been made at the Colony Club this season are the installation of new lighting effects throughout the "Colony Room" and the complete transformation of this room from its former bleak appearance to a colorful bower of tropical foliage.

Where in former years the Colony Club's inside dining room was a vast uninterrupted expanse of space, Mr. Mitchell has actually brought the atmosphere of an outdoor formal garden into this room, completely changing it from bleak formality to informal warmth and intimacy.

Cleverly arranged tropical planting has created a number of cozy nooks in this room, with one section providing a colorful background for casual, informal cocktail gatherings. In this setting, gin-rummy, backgammon, towie and other games enjoyed by the resort crowd will be arranged for.

The always lovely "Tropical Garden" of the Colony Club, where the smart set have danced under the stars and entertained in a fragrant setting of tropical trees, flowers and shrubs, is more attractive than ever before. Gay striped awnings and an intriguing blend of Parisian outdoor cafe atmosphere and tropical beauty make this beautiful outdoor setting unique.

A flood of requests has been sent in to the managing director of the Colony Club for a background for large private cocktail parties, with the result that special facilities are being installed to handle these requests.

Not the least of the charm of the Colony Club under the management of Mr. Mitchell will be the moderately priced background of excellent service that has been arranged. A new high in service and cuisine and a new low in prices is the motto of the 1942 version of the renowned Colony Club.

Aid America Night at the world-famous Patio held each Wednesday evening, attracts a host of prominent resorters who enjoy the appearance of talented stars for these weekly galas and who, at the same time, contribute to this patriotic cause started by Mrs. Henry J. Topping, Jr., to aid Soldiers, Sailors and Marines in active service.

The inaugural Aid America party held last Wednesday brought out a record crowd at the Patio, featured by a delightful presentation of star entertainers.

In the forefront of the entertainment scene was lovely and talented Sara Anne McCabe, soprano songstress, whose offerings of the latest song hits given with accomplishment and charm, brought rounds of applause and concerted demands for encores.

Jack Beekman, well known tenor who has been appearing at Whitehall, was at his best before the imposing audience of Patio patrons, and Tommy Goodwin, popular singing golfer, gave his many friends of the winter colony a treat with his favorite songs.

The Arthur Murray dancers furnished the ultimate in terpsichore with their graceful interpretations of modern ballroom dances.

Friday evening party nights at the Patio also find many of the colony present for the special features offered and the Sunday evening steak dinner parties attract many for a delicious dinner, superb music and backgammon and gin rummy contests.

The Saturday evening Balloon Showers of Hidden Treasures provide a world of fun as dancing couples receive treasures from the sky, and dance to the rhythmic music of Val Ernie's orchestra.

One of the most interesting supper parties given recently was that of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Barclay K. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Holmsen, Mrs. Jay J. O'Brien, Mrs. Bea Ammidown, Mrs. Wesson Seyburn, Mrs. Frederick M. Alger, Jr., Mr. Charles A. Munn, Mr. Charles A. Munn, Jr., Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Mr. J. Gordon Douglas, Jr., Mr. Andre Embiricos.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Hill were noted at an umbrella table with Miss Grace Amory and Mr. Arthur Choate.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Salisbury were present with Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Buhl, while nearby were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Royce Kent, Mr. E. Leonard Beard, Jr., and Mr. James McGaughey.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parish were observed with Mrs. Antoinette Johnson and Mr. Channing Hare, while at an adjoining table were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Brandt.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gafaell and Mr. and Mrs. John Gafaell, Jr., occupied a dance floor table as did Mr. and Mrs. John Vigoroux.

An interesting dinner party was that consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Emmons, Mrs. Jean Moore, Mrs. Paul Timbal, Mr. Joseph D. Bannon, Mr. Dwight Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mackintosh were observed with Princess Laura Rospigliosi, and the Princesses Camilla and Francesca Rospigliosi.

A party of the younger set in the lounge included Miss Betty Bell, Miss Joy Plummer, Mr. Eric Ridder, Mr. Jeffry Roche, Mr. Hugh Bayne, Jr., Mr. Robert Clark and Mr. Robert Buckley.

Noted in interesting twosomes on the dance floor were Mrs. Ritchey Farrell and Mr. Charles Amory, Commander J. M. L. Rutherford and Mrs. Rutherford, Miss Dorothy Thompson and Mr. Tommy Goodwin, Miss Charlene Erbstein and Mr. Dooley Sadlmayr.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Kelly were with Mr. and Mrs. J. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Noel Marshall Seeburg were present with Mrs. Frank van Eizner.

Mrs. N. B. Spingold was noted with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Levitan. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Feltman were supper guests.

Others noted in the many parties were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Valier, Col. and Mrs. Robert Thomas, Mrs. George Clark and Mr. Robert Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Cook, Capt. Gino Signorini, Mr. George T. McCarthy, 3d, and Mr. Frank Quigley, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald McNeill, Jr.

Palm Beach's newest smart rendezvous, the South Ocean Club, has launched a program of interesting events to be held throughout the season. These include Sunday afternoon cocktail hours and tea dances, wrestling match dinners, Dollarolla dinners and backgammon tournaments.

The first tea dance took place Jan. 18 when many resort colonists assembled in the Headhunter Cocktail Lounge and to dance to the music of Gus Lazaro's Bahamian Club orchestra. On the following night was the first in a series of special dinners designed for the convenience of resort colonists wishing to attend the wrestling matches in Lake Worth. These should prove popular features since one may dine leisurely at the club and then motor over to the arena, only a few minutes drive distant.

Dollarolla, an intriguing game played with silver dollars, was introduced to a large group at the South Ocean Club Jan. 15 and met with instant favor. Dollarolla dinners will be an event of every Thursday throughout the season. The ever-popular backgammon is featured on Friday nights, the first backgammon dinner taking place Jan. 23.

The South Ocean Club has opened its beach facilities which include everything for the comfort and pleasure of sun-worshippers, even a cabana bar, located directly on the palm-fringed beach. Several of the colorful cabanas have been leased for the season and the beach, one of the most attractive in the resort, will again be a mecca for smart members of the winter colony.

The club has been the setting for numerous smart dinner and supper gatherings. Mrs. Frederic Winthrop Neilson of Boca Raton entertained there for Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus Stokes, who are at their winter home in Deerfield.

Prince Najeeb Kiami of Arabia, who was in the resort enroute to Havana, was noted with Mrs. Arthur Hudson Marks. Miss Rosemary Warburton, daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, who is with her grandparents, Major and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton at Villa des Cygnes, was noted at the supper hour with Mr. Arthur Osgood Choate, Jr. of New York, who is at the Surfside.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. McCarthy, Jr., of the villa colony gave a dinner at the South Ocean Club, having as their guests caught by the camera at the Patio, who is again spending the season at the oceanfront residence of her stepfather, Mr. Herbert E. Pulitzer, who is serving with the RAF.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Kolb, Mrs. Harry Zuver, Mrs. L. Francis Altstock, and Mr. Edwin G. Lauder, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. William White Forrester were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Mario de Tullio, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dietsch, and Mrs. Charles Henderson Randle.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Davis of Evanston, Ill., who are at the Everglades Club, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Lehmann of Via Vizacaya, Mr. and Mrs. David Graham Legget 3d, Mr. and Mrs. John Gafaell, Jr., who are here at the Breakers, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Noble of El Vedado Lane, are among the many resort colonists who have entertained recently at the South Ocean Club.

Exhibition Of Contemporary American Painting

At The Society of the Four Arts

THE THIRD ANNUAL EXHIBITION of Contemporary American Painting at the Society of the Four Arts, will open with a preview tea for members at 4:30 o'clock on Thursday, January 29th. Thereafter the exhibition will be on view to the public, mornings and afternoons throughout the week and on Sunday afternoons, from Friday, January 30th, through Sunday, February 15th.

This year's committee, responsible for the selection of 91 oil paintings by America's most noted artists, is composed of Mr. William L. McKim, chairman; Mrs. Benjamin Rogers, co-chairman; Mrs. LeRay Berdeau, Mrs. Frederick Johnson, and Mrs. Paul Moore. Of the above paintings, 44 were chosen by a joint committee of the Society of the Four Arts and of the Clearwater Art Museum as a Circuit Group to be shown at Miami, Palm Beach, Clearwater, Sarasota, and Bradenton, in that order. These 44 have already been seen at the Miami Beach Public Library and Art Center and are now to appear in Palm Beach, where they will be merged with 47 additional paintings engaged by the Four Arts committee for Palm Beach alone. Upon completion of the show at Palm Beach the 44 circuit pictures will continue on for the exhibitions at Clearwater, Sarasota, and Bradenton.

The community will have the opportunity to enjoy at leisure some of the finest works of today's leaders in American Art. The war may soon prevent the shipment to Florida of any such number of valuable canvases.

Due to the success of last year's Four Arts Exhibition, the committee found that the chief galleries in New York were willing to reserve works of the highest quality for the Palm Beach Show. In this connection mention might be made of such important pictures as Edward Hopper's "Cape Cod Homestead," Eugene Speicher's "Josephine," Louis Bouche's "Circus," William Gropper's "Spanish Concentration Camp," Louis Eilshemius' "On the Bridge," and Peter Blume's "Weathervane."

The exhibition will include pictures ranging from the super-realism of Ogden Pleissner's "Meadow Stream" to the sur-realism of James Guy's "Horse of Uccello" and to the abstract art of Lyonel Feininger's "Windmill." An attempt has been made to cover most of the important phases of contemporary painting being produced throughout the country.

For those who care to increase their understanding of American Painting, two lectures have been planned in conjunction with the show. These are being given at "Thatchcote," the home of Mrs. Benjamin Rogers, by the well known art critic and author, Mrs. Helen Appleton Read. Last Spring Mrs. Read was one of the organizers of an exhibition of American Paintings which, under the auspices of Mr.

"Josephine" is the title of a studio portrait by Eugene Speicher. This picture, now at the Four Arts, was much admired during National Art Week in the New York Dealers' Show at W. and J. Sloane.

Nelson Rockefeller's committee on Inter-American Cultural Relations, toured the South American capitols.

A partial list of the patrons and patronesses of the Palm Beach exhibition includes the names of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Gunster, Mrs. Lorenzo Woodhouse, Mrs. Diana Guest, Mr. Michael Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. John Pillsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Norton, Mr. Arthur Bradley Campbell, Princess Zalstem-Zalesky, Mrs. Henry Topping, Jr., Mr. Carman Messmore, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Sims Wyeth, Mrs. Ritchey Farrell, Mr. Jules Bache, Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. Arthur Graham Glasgow, Dr. Edmund LeRoy Dow, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Spaulding, Mr. A. Atwater Kent, Mr. Harvey S. Ladew.

Some of the artists represented, in addition to those previously mentioned, are Marsden Hartley, George Marinko, David Burliuk, Clarence Carter, Luigi Lucioni, Lawrence Lebduska, Ann Brockman, Eugene Higgins, Bernard Karfiol, Louis Guglielmi, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, Robert Philipp, Edward Bruce, William D. Fawcett, Thomas Benton, Harold Weston, William Gropper, Lamar Dodd, Gifford Beal, Jon Corbino, Guy Pene du Bois, Herman Maril, Robert Brackman, Peter Hurd, Molly Luce, Joseph de Martini, Darrell Austin, Fletcher Martin, Waldo Pierce, Isabel Bishop, Paul Cadmus, Simka Simkovitch, Yves Tanguy, Georges Schreiber, Aaron Bohrod, Arnold Blanch, Ernest Fiene, Doris Lee, Franklin Watkins, Henry Mattson, Morris Kantor, John Wyeth, Leon Kroll, Hobson Pittman and Aronzo Gasparo.

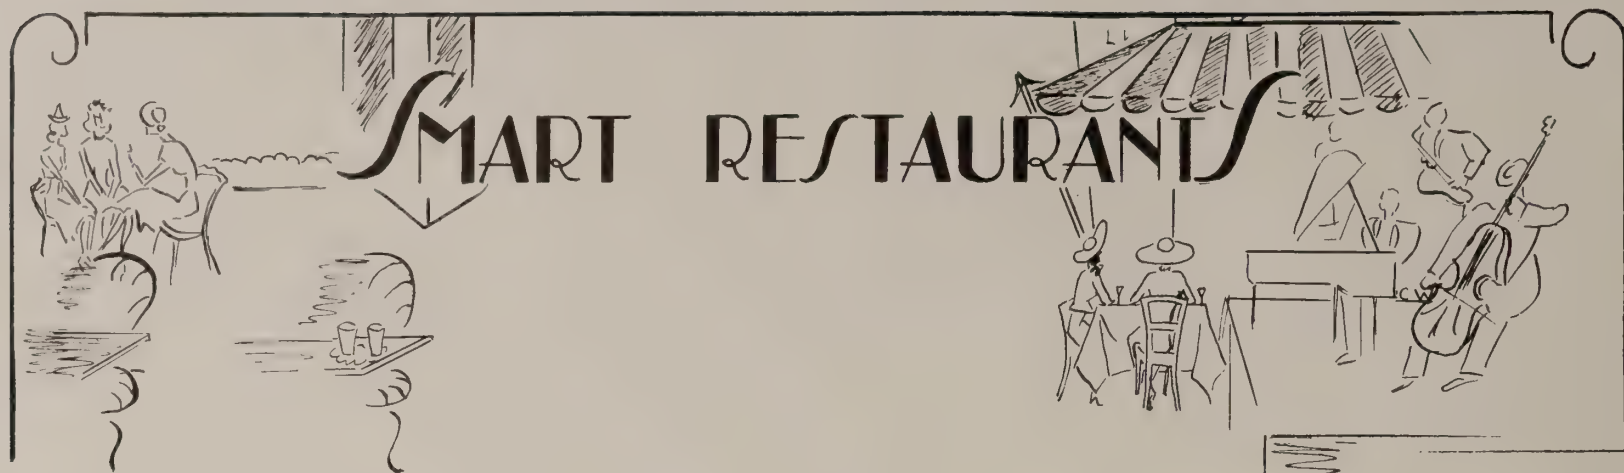

"South Carolina Beach" by Lamar Dodd is similar in subject to a work by this artist in the Metropolitan Museum.
Loaned by the Ferargil Gallery.

"Cape Cod Homestead," an example of the highest painting quality by Edward Hopper, was loaned by the Frank K. M. Rehn Gallery.

THOSE WHO MAKE PALM BEACH their annual winter residence can usually be found, shortly after their return to the resort, wending their way to the Chambord, the leading French restaurant on the island. Here they find their pleasant memories of the Continental cuisine, the fine wines and the smooth service remain exactly as they remember it all from other seasons.

Always a topic of conversation at the Chambord is the fascinating collection of bottles which line the walls. With the collection nearing the four thousand mark, they are now being arranged in a third row around the cocktail lounge.

These bottles, all of which have been opened since the Chambord's innovation in the resort three seasons ago, are an interesting sidelight on the history of the colony. The bottles are all autographed, with the signatures reading like a who's who, not only of society, but the sports and political fields as well. Every day finds more names being added to the distinguished collection, many of which mark some auspicious occasion in the lives of the participants.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moffat of the Everglades Club and Mr. and Mrs. R. Laurence Parish, who returned to the resort recently, are frequent dinner hosts at the Chambord. Mr. and Mrs. John R. Woone of the cottage colony observed their joint birthdays at a party at the Chambord recently.

Others noted there, entertaining at dinner or informal luncheon groups are Mr. Fritz von Opel, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Stemmler, Mrs. L. Gordon Hamersley who dined with her mother, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish Morris, and Mr. J. Gordon Douglas with Mr. Barclay Douglas.

Mrs. Maitland Alexander, who joined her sons here a few weeks ago, was a member of a dinner party for six while Mr. and Mrs. J. Densmore Tew, who have leased a home in the resort after a stay at the Brazilian Court, have frequently dined together at the Chambord.

Mr. Robert Fulton Clarke was luncheon host to a group of the younger set there and Mrs. Cornelius Dresselhuys, who is occupying the penthouse at Whitehall with her husband, entertained a few luncheon guests.

Many Hobe Sound residents are noted at the Chambord with Mr. Winthrop N. Saltus, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln C. Ellsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Sayle and Mr. and Mrs. Sherburne Prescott among the members of the Jupiter Island contingent who are often seen in luncheon or dinner groups at the Chambord.

Driving down from Palm Beach to greet Prince Alexis Obolensky at the Patio Delray has become one of the pleasant interludes to Red Cross classes, and other war activities.

The famous charcoal broiled steaks cooked out in the open in their outdoor oven and such deliciously tempting tidbits as broiled live Maine lobster on Friday nights with a bottle of Pouilly-Fuisse to top off the cuisine creations of Nick Manzana continue to attract the smart set.

Among the many members of the social colony in Palm Beach noted at the Patio Delray recently were: Mr. and Mrs. James de Peyster, Prince and Princess Irbain Khan Kaplanoff, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Turnure, Prince and Princess Alexis Zalstem-Zalessky, Madame Guitou Knoop, Mrs. Frederick Neilson, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus Stokes, Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Kent, Jr., Captain Alastair Mackintosh, Mr. Walter V. Schulke, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Harding, Mr. and Mrs. W. Seward Webb, Mr. and Mrs. James Knott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Giblin, Mrs. Sam Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Carhart, Mr. and Mrs. F. Worthington Hine, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin P. Bakewell, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Painter, Mrs. Bache Whitlock, Mrs. McAlpin Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hoffman and Mrs. Latham Reed.

The location of Mayerling, the only Viennese restaurant in the resort, makes it ideally convenient for those who are active in the Red Cross and various war drives to entertain friends in informal luncheon groups.

The delectable dishes which are featured at this Viennese dining place always attract winter colonists. The gourmets in the resort are particularly appreciative of their many varieties of gulasches, wiener schnitzels and other European items listed on the menu.

Mayerling pride themselves on their wine list and can always offer the wine which will be the perfect complement for any course. One of the most popular drinks at Mayerling is their famed champagne sours. This drink, which is made from the original recipe used at the old Zum Weissen Ross'l Restaurant, is a fine example of perfect blending.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fatio were dinner hosts at Mayerling recently as were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Paley and Mr. and Mrs. John Gefaell. The Gefaells were dinner hosts on the day they returned to the resort for the season, when they entertained Mr. and Mrs. John Gefaell, Jr., and Miss Joy Plummer.

Mrs. Bache McE. Whitlock was luncheon hostess to a group of friends at Mayerling, her guests including Mrs. Avy B. Smith, Mrs. Joel W. Massie, Mrs. Spencer W. Aldrich, Mrs. Frank B. Page and Mrs. McAlpin Bell. Mr. Gunner Steen, Mrs. Johnson Gensler and Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Cook are others seen at Mayerling as members of various dinner or luncheon groups.

The March of Time

FOR OVER thirty years
your Water Company has dedicated the efforts of this organization to supplying a soft, pure water, free from all harmful elements present in untreated water.

Diligent research coupled with the most modern methods known to engineering science result in bringing to you a superlative water whose rigid tests reveal the highest standards obtainable.

Be Safe, Use A Water You Know Is Safe.

REVIEW EXTRACTS

"This book as a work of art and a mine of information about Chinese Jades is really remarkable"—James Farber, The San Antonio Light.

"For both reference and informative interest, this book is a rare treat, both for the laymen and collectors . . ."—Ella Eaddy, The Macon Telegraph, Ga.

"A scholarly essay on this precious antique by a world-famous authority . . . an enviable acquisition for the art collector and student of art."—Westchester Features Syndicate.

The Sun never sets on

It gives you a deep sense of satisfaction when you order a drink "made with Gilbey's Gin" to realize that at the very same minute other men who know fine liquors are sitting at far-away windows with that same familiar Gilbey's bottle beside them. For nearly a century now, the sun has never set on Gilbey's Gin . . . because millions of men have found, as you will, too, that Gilbey's makes a great drink greater!
